Local Dems promised more party action

Suburban Democratic leaders were promised a bigger piece of the political pie Monday night by the top two candidates for chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee.

Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne and Chicago Park District Supt. Edmund L. Kelly told a caucus of Democratic township committeemen they would be admitted to the political decision-making process in a way they never were under the former chairman, the late Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Kelly and Dunne appeared before the caucus of Democratic Township Committeemen at the Ambassador West Hotel, Chicago.

Kelly drew a noticeably more enthusiastic response from the committeemen, perhaps because he said unequivocally he would not run for mayor of Chicago if he is elected county chairman by the central committee when it meets Wednesday afternoon at the Bismark Hotel in Chicago.

Dunne, however, said he saw nothing wrong with holding both offices as Daley had done.

BOTH DUNNE AND Kelly told the suburban committeemen that they:

- Favor the election of a vice chairman from the suburbs and by the suburban committeemen.
- Support the idea that more candidates from the suburbs be slated for countywide offices.
- Agree that township committeemen, and not competing Democratic clubs, should be recognized as the local leaders of the Democratic party.
- Would work for Chicago-suburban representation on slate-making committees in a five to three ratio, the same ratio as on the central committee.

Neither Dunne nor Kelly addressed a fifth issue raised by the suburbanites — that township committeemen be given control of suburban patronage jobs now held by Chicago ward committeemen.

Committeemen from the suburbs, who together represent little more than 25 per cent of the total votes in the central committee, said after their two-hour meeting Monday night there was no agreement on which candidate to support.

"We plan to caucus Wednesday at 11 a.m. to discuss whether we will vote as a bloc," Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman Donald Norman said. "A lot of things can still happen between now and then."

ALTHOUGH DUNNE said he is not seeking the office of Chicago Mayor, his statement that he saw nothing wrong with someone holding both the mayor's and the party chairman's positions reminded suburban committeemen of the backhanded way in which they had often been treated by Daley.

Kelly, by contrast, promised the committeemen that each would have his home telephone number and that city and suburbs would work together as a political team.

"In the future you shall be referred to as suburban township committeemen. I respect the title of township committeemen," Kelly said in apparent reference to Daley's practice of ignoring suburban Democratic party interests.

Dunne told the group his door is always open to them and would continue to be so if he is selected party chairman. "We just grew up that way," he said.

THE FACT THAT both Dunne and Kelly accepted the suburbanites invitation to appear before them Monday night was taken as evidence that the contest for party chairman is undecided and that suburban votes, although relatively few in number, could tip the balance.

Northwest suburban committeemen said they were encouraged by the opportunity to get a foothold in what had been a political inter sanctum for nearly two decades.

"The suburbs are coming of age and have to be recognized by the city people as a potent force in elections," William Rose, Elk Grove Township Democratic Committeeman told The Herald Monday.

"It's a completely and totally interesting situation — a breath of fresh air in the smoke-filled room. One of the big hangups Democrats have had in the suburbs is that the Republicans have been able to use Mayor Daley as their whipping boy. Well, they can't do that now," Rose said.

KELLY AND DUNNE appeared separately before the suburban committeemen in a meeting that was thrown open to the press at the last minute.

Ford may consider full amnesty

by RICHARD E. LERNER

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford said Monday he will consider granting full amnesty to all Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters because he was asked to do so by the widow of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich. Hart died Sunday.

Ford said he "wouldn't want to make any commitment," but will make a firm decision before leaving office Jan. 20.

He said he was restudying the issue at the request of Hart's widow, who asked him to do that in a telephone conversation when he called her to extend his condolences.

"I THOUGHT a great deal of him," Ford said of his former congressional colleague from Michigan, "and I said 'was there anything I could do.' She said she would like to ask if I would extend amnesty across-the-board, and I said I would look into it."

Later in the afternoon, after attending a social reception, Ford declined to elaborate when asked if he were "serious" about his willingness to consider granting amnesty.

"Oh no," Ford replied. "I just said that at the request of her (Mrs. Hart) I would look at it."

Asked then if he merely was being polite to Hart's wife, he replied, "The words speak for themselves."

Mrs. Hart was a vigorous opponent of the Vietnam War and was involved in a number of demonstrations at its height, included being arrested once. Hart too opposed the war, but came to that viewpoint after his wife had.

Asked when he would make a decision, Ford said "certainly before the 20th of January, but as everybody knows, we had a good program that resulted in about 18,000 earning their way. The rest didn't make any effort, so it's a question to look at, but I wouldn't want to make any commitment."

Shortly after taking office in August, 1974, Ford announced a limited amnesty program in which draft evaders could "earn their way back" by performing two years of alternative service, working in hospitals and other public service programs.

Ford's program applied only on a person-to-person basis and was not a blanket amnesty.

U.S. government figures show that of 106,472 persons eligible, only 21,723, or about 20 per cent, applied.

PRESIDENT-ELECT Jimmy Carter has said he is considering broadening the amnesty program as it ap-

Revenge for Entebbe threatened

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas will strike at targets around the world, including the United States, in 1977 to avenge the Israeli commando raid on Uganda's Entebbe airport, a guerrilla spokesman warned Monday.

Uganda radio said a spokesman for an international Palestinian organization visited President Idi Amin and said he assured the president "Israel will pay for the blood shed at Entebbe airport" during the July 4 attack.

The organization was not identified by the official radio but was believed to be the Palestine Liberation Organization.

THE ENTEBBE raid was staged to rescue hostages, most of them Israelis, being held by pro-Palestinians who hijacked an Air France jetplane and forced it to land at Entebbe.

"The blood shed at Entebbe will be paid for in the coming year," the Palestinian said. "This could be in Asia, Europe, America or Africa.

He said, "1976 was a year of bloodshed in which Uganda and the Palestinians shared" but it will be Israel's turn to pay in 1977.

In a separate announcement Amin accused some bishops in Uganda of "preaching violence and not peace" from the pulpit and he warned the unnamed clergymen they might be severely punished.

"Those who preach trouble have been brainwashed by colonialists and imperialists," Radio Uganda quoted Amin as saying, "and they will be deprived of their privileges such as radio and television and the right to fly flags on their cars."

Amin has periodically accused the church of plotting against his regime and warned clergymen of dire consequences.

Hospitals insure themselves to cut costs

by TONI GINNETTI and KURT BAER
Second of a series

"I call it the Schlitz syndrome: You only go around once, so grab for all you can. That's the way a lot of people look at filing malpractice suits," said Theodore Jacobsen, executive vice president of the 697-bed Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Like administrators at the other three hospitals in the Northwest suburbs, Jacobsen had to stand by helplessly in 1975 when his hospital's malpractice insurance premium increased exponentially. But no more.

Lutheran General and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village have become their own insurers through hospital-controlled "captive" companies set up on the island of Bermuda.

The move has helped to brake the runaway cost of malpractice protection and, one hospital official says, eventually may even start reducing premiums.

"THE FACT THAT we've now got our own insurance company makes us even more careful to prevent accidents and mistakes. It's an added incentive, and I hope that by 1980 we'll be one of the few hospitals to actually start showing a decrease in our malpractice premium because of our experience and because we've been innovative," said Bruce Fisher, financial vice president at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

Administrators say they made the move because they believed the commercial insurance premiums they were paying were too high in relation to the malpractice claims and losses the hospitals sustained.

"The premiums to the captive company are really no different than they would be with a commercial carrier for the first four years," Fisher explained.

But after the new insurance company's reserves are built, the hospital's premiums will reflect its actual experience in malpractice losses, he said.

The captive insurance company for the Alexian Brothers of America Inc., which operates Alexian Brothers Medical Center, is called Edessa Insurance Co. The medical center has been a part of it since Oct. 1, Fisher said.

"THE CAT IS REALLY on our back now to see that we use good practice all the way through," Jacobsen said. Lutheran General is one of 59 hospitals in a Bermuda-based captive insurance company called Multi Hospital Mutual Insurance Ltd. The hospital's $1.3 million premium this year is roughly half of what it would have been to a private carrier, he said.

"From January 1969 to July 1976 we paid a total of $2 million in premiums. In 1975, we were charged $1.3 million and in July 1976, we were proposed a rate of $2.5 million. That's when we decided to switch," he said.

Other hospital malpractice premiums also have shot up in the past two years. But the percentage of increase between 1976 and 1977 has been smaller. The higher cost of insurance affects directly the room rate charged to patients. Insurance premiums were cited as a major contributor to room rate increases announced by area hospitals a year ago.

At Alexian Brothers Medical Center, malpractice insurance costs were $133,000 in 1975; $1,081,000 in 1976 and $1.6 million in 1977, which amounts to about $13.50 per patient day.

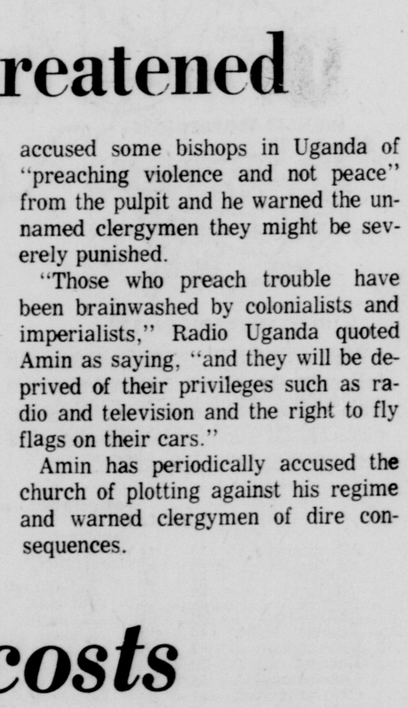

Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, has seen a similar increase from $475,000 in 1975 to $1.2 million in 1977 to $1.8 million in 1977, or about $10 per patient day.

AT HOLY FAMILY Hospital, Des Plaines, malpractice premiums two years ago amounted to less than a dollar a day. Today the cost is more than $5 a day.

Suburban hospital administrators complain that the malpractice insurance cost increases they have experienced do not reflect their good record in malpractice losses. Their frustration is compounded by the fact that there is only one commercial insurance company still writing malpractice insurance for Illinois hospitals, the Argonaut Insurance Co.

"Unfortunately, most of the work by insurance companies in hospital risk

MALPRACTICE:
Is the crisis over?

Tel-Tronics firm cited in possible fraud case

U.S. Postal Service inspectors are investigating a Des Plaines business for possible postal fraud that could amount to more than $1 million.

Des Plaines police said they have received 25 to 40 calls per day from persons nationwide complaining that Tel-Tronics Co., has not sent merchandise that has been paid for.

Tel-Tronics, 2590 and 2400 Devon Ave., opened in Des Plaines Sept. 1 and, according to police, receives about 2,000 pieces of mail daily, presumably orders for digital wristwatches, which the company has advertised nationally.

DET. HERB VOLBERDING said one of the major issues in the complaints is an advertisement that appeared in the Nov. 16 issue of TV Guide, offering watches for only $16.95.

Police began investigating Tel-Tronics, last week when John Allard, Ware, Mass., called to complain that his order of watches was not delivered, but his check was cashed.

Tel-Tronics personnel told police they were backlogged with orders and were forced to wait until checks cleared before they would ship merchandise as an antifraud measure.

Des Plaines police marked the case unfounded Thursday, but reopened it for investigation Friday when they could not locate office personnel, including company president John Rodine. A mailman for one office location said that Rodine is in Japan until Jan. 3.

But another mailman who delivers to the Tel-Tronics office at 2400 Devon Ave., told police he was told Rodine lives in Hong Kong and is there for the holiday season.

ONE TEL-TRONICS customer in Wilmette said the company has a bank account at the O'Hare International Bank and ships watches by United Parcel Service. But police contacted a UPS spokesman at Northbrook wh said Tel-Tronics has never been a UPS customer.

The Illinois Attorney General's office and the office of the U.S. Attorney moved quickly Monday to freeze two Tel-Tronics accounts at the O'Hare International Bank containing an estimated $600,000 and $300,000, investigators said.

Tel-Tronics reportedly has a third account with an estimated $100,000 at the First National Bank of Morton Grove.

Employe-struck resort hires non-union workers

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The massive Fontainebleau, the latest luxury resort struck by union hotel service employes, began hiring noon-union maids, waiters and bellmen Monday to keep its holiday guests happy.

The ocean-front Fontainebleau — booked solid with holiday vacationers — was the seventh Miami-area resort hotel struck by local 355 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders in a growing contract dispute over wages and fringe benefits.

The Fontainebleau began hiring non-union help hours after union pickets began marching in front of the 1,250-room highrise resort on famed Collins Avenue.

"WE PUT OUT the word we are hiring permanent staff, and people are coming in for the jobs," Fontainebleau spokesman Harold Gardner said.

"There's a lot of unemployment in Dade County and people want to work. We've already hired 30 people and we're putting them to work right away."

Representatives for the struck hotels said they were getting more complaints about the temperature, which dipped into the mid-40s early Monday after a cold front moved through south Florida, than about the strike.

"The cold weather added insult to injury," Gardner said.

"First the weather, then this," sighed Muriel Hirschman, a New Yorker on a five-day vacation at a struck hotel.

"I didn't come here to make beds, but then where else would I go?"

The Hotel service employes union began its strike Saturday. By Monday, union pickets were marching at the Doral Beach, Shelborne, Doral Country Club, Carillon, Eden Roc, Deauville, and Fontainebleau. Three large hotels —the Everglades, Konover and Montmarte — signed new contracts over the weekend.

EDWIN DEAN, the executive director of the Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Assn., said the reaction of guests at the struck hotels "has just been great."

"The reports I'm getting say the guests are having a ball. The checkouts are normal for this time of year and we can't attribute any checkouts to the strike," Dean said.

Dean said that "there are no new developments" in the strike and no talks have been scheduled between the union and managers of the struck hotels.

Mother seeks custody of son

More than five years after she defied a court order in Chicago and skipped the country, Margaret Bejnarowicz was back in Cook County Circuit Court Monday seeking legal absolution and custody of her son. The boy, Wojciech, 6, was brought back to Chicago from London, England Nov. 17, in a cloak-and-dagger mission engineered by his father, Dr. Zygmunt R. Bejnarowicz, a Park Ridge dentist. A British court order in May 1971, upheld the United States court order and said custody of the boy remains with the father. However, when Bejnarowicz attempted to pick up the boy the day after the order was issued he found that his estranged wife and son had disappeared. Presiding Divorce Court Judge Robert L. Hunter set Jan. 10 for a temporary custody hearing and Feb. 28 for a hearing on the contempt of court issues.

Pretrial hearings for two persons accused of slayings in the Northwest suburbs have been continued in Cook County Circuit Court. Hearings for Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca, charged with the May 4 slayings of Miss Columbo's parents and younger brother in Elk Grove Village, were continued last week to Jan. 7 to allow time for defense and prosecuting attorneys to prepare arguments on whether the defendants must permit handwriting, fingerprint and hair samples to be taken by investigators.

Tel-Tronics firm cited in possible fraud case

U.S. Postal Service inspectors are investigating a Des Plaines business for possible postal fraud that could amount to more than $1 million.

Des Plaines police said they have received 25 to 40 calls per day from persons nationwide complaining that Tel-Tronics Co., has not sent merchandise that has been paid for.

Tel-Tronics, 2590 and 2400 Devon Ave., opened in Des Plaines Sept. 1 and, according to police, receives about 2,000 pieces of mail daily, presumably orders for digital wristwatches, which the company has advertised nationally.

DET. HERB VOLBERDING said one of the major issues in the complaints is an advertisement that appeared in the Nov. 16 issue of TV Guide, offering watches for only $16.95.

Police began investigating Tel-Tronics, last week when John Allard, Ware, Mass., called to complain that his order of watches was not delivered, but his check was cashed.

Tel-Tronics personnel told police they were backlogged with orders and were forced to wait until checks cleared before they would ship merchandise as an antifraud measure.

Des Plaines police marked the case unfounded Thursday, but reopened it for investigation Friday when they could not locate office personnel, including company president John Rodine. A mailman for one office location said that Rodine is in Japan until Jan. 3.

But another mailman who delivers to the Tel-Tronics office at 2400 Devon Ave., told police he was told Rodine lives in Hong Kong and is there for the holiday season.

ONE TEL-TRONICS customer in Wilmette said the company has a bank account at the O'Hare International Bank and ships watches by United Parcel Service. But police contacted a UPS spokesman at Northbrook wh said Tel-Tronics has never been a UPS customer.

The Illinois Attorney General's office and the office of the U.S. Attorney moved quickly Monday to freeze two Tel-Tronics accounts at the O'Hare International Bank containing an estimated $600,000 and $300,000, investigators said.

Tel-Tronics reportedly has a third account with an estimated $100,000 at the First National Bank of Morton Grove.

MIAMI BEACH tourists Sigme Christian, right, and her sister, Sonya, wait by bags they carried Monday as father checks out of the Fontainebleau Hotel. Service employes struck the hotel, the seventh in the area, Monday.

Employe-struck resort hires non-union workers

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The massive Fontainebleau, the latest luxury resort struck by union hotel service employes, began hiring noon-union maids, waiters and bellmen Monday to keep its holiday guests happy.

The ocean-front Fontainebleau — booked solid with holiday vacationers — was the seventh Miami-area resort hotel struck by local 355 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders in a growing contract dispute over wages and fringe benefits.

The Fontainebleau began hiring non-union help hours after union pickets began marching in front of the 1,250-room highrise resort on famed Collins Avenue.

"WE PUT OUT the word we are hiring permanent staff, and people are coming in for the jobs," Fontainebleau spokesman Harold Gardner said.

"There's a lot of unemployment in Dade County and people want to work. We've already hired 30 people and we're putting them to work right away."

Representatives for the struck hotels said they were getting more complaints about the temperature, which dipped into the mid-40s early Monday after a cold front moved through south Florida, than about the strike.

"The cold weather added insult to injury," Gardner said.

"First the weather, then this," sighed Muriel Hirschman, a New Yorker on a five-day vacation at a struck hotel.

"I didn't come here to make beds, but then where else would I go?"

The Hotel service employes union began its strike Saturday. By Monday, union pickets were marching at the Doral Beach, Shelborne, Doral Country Club, Carillon, Eden Roc, Deauville, and Fontainebleau. Three large hotels —the Everglades, Konover and Montmarte — signed new contracts over the weekend.

EDWIN DEAN, the executive director of the Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Assn., said the reaction of guests at the struck hotels "has just been great."

"The reports I'm getting say the guests are having a ball. The checkouts are normal for this time of year and we can't attribute any checkouts to the strike," Dean said.

Dean said that "there are no new developments" in the strike and no talks have been scheduled between the union and managers of the struck hotels.

Mother seeks custody of son

More than five years after she defied a court order in Chicago and skipped the country, Margaret Bejnarowicz was back in Cook County Circuit Court Monday seeking legal absolution and custody of her son. The boy, Wojciech, 6, was brought back to Chicago from London, England Nov. 17, in a cloak-and-dagger mission engineered by his father, Dr. Zygmunt R. Bejnarowicz, a Park Ridge dentist. A British court order in May 1971, upheld the United States court order and said custody of the boy remains with the father. However, when Bejnarowicz attempted to pick up the boy the day after the order was issued he found that his estranged wife and son had disappeared. Presiding Divorce Court Judge Robert L. Hunter set Jan. 10 for a temporary custody hearing and Feb. 28 for a hearing on the contempt of court issues.

Pretrial hearings for two persons accused of slayings in the Northwest suburbs have been continued in Cook County Circuit Court. Hearings for Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca, charged with the May 4 slayings of Miss Columbo's parents and younger brother in Elk Grove Village, were continued last week to Jan. 7 to allow time for defense and prosecuting attorneys to prepare arguments on whether the defendants must permit handwriting, fingerprint and hair samples to be taken by investigators.

Church youth group seeks record

Bible-reading marathon puts focus on Christmas

by MARY DIETER

"Late in December of the tenth year," intoned the teen-ager at the pulpit, "this message came to me from the Lord . . ."

In the otherwise empty pews, a few more teen-agers slept quietly, curled up in their sleeping bags.

From down the hall came the tock-tock-tock sound of a ping-pong game between two boys in blue jeans.

The 23 members of the Elk Grove Wesleyan Church youth group were in the third day of their Bible-reading marathon.

THEY BEGAN at 7 p.m. Christmas Day, reading the first chapter of Genesis in unison. They soon settled down to half-hour reading shifts, using their time off to sleep, eat, sing, play the guitar and challenge each other at the ping-pong table.

By Monday afternoon, they had plowed through most of The Living Bible's version of the Old Testament. They reached the story of Christ's birth late Monday night and expect to read the last "Amen" of the last verse in Revelations by 7 or 8 p.m. today.

The Rev. David Crail, pastor of the church at 545 Landmeier Rd., said he suggested last year that the young church members observe Christmas by reading nonstop through the New Testament.

His 19-year-old son Ted, a leader of the youth group, went one better by convincing his friends to tackle the entire Bible. They did it in 75 hours last year, and this year's effort is being carefully documented to meet the standards of the Guinness Book of World Records.

But the real goal, Ted said, "is putting an emphasis on the spiritual aspect of Christmas."

THE PARTICIPANTS, bleary-eyed and hoarse, agreed.

"It's getting me o know the rest of the group better," said Kary Engelbrecht, 14, of 281 Wildwood Rd. "It'll help me know more about the Bible and the church."

Later in the day, some readers took part in a Bible study. "We read two chapters of James and applied them to our lives," Engelbrecht said.

Faith Mimnaugh, 13, of 871 Brantwood Pl., said members solved their problems during the Bible study. The problems are nothing serious, she said, just "who's cleaning up the messes."

Mimnaugh, who participated in the marathon last year, said she is getting less out of this year's readings because some participants "haven't got al lthe spirit yet. But we're working on it."

Dana Decicco, 13, of 242 Shady Wood Lane, said the marathon is helping her get more out of reading the Bible.

"I LIKE DOING this. It's Christmas thing," she said.

Their friends probably are spending Christmas break on vacation or "sitting around doing nothing," Engelbrecht said.

"The record itself isn't the most important thing," Ted Crail said.

But the group still wants it entered into the record book because "as soon as the record is in the book, it will motivate others to do the same."

BIBLE MARATHON. Jamie King takes her turn reading the Bible as Tracey Duncan rests on church bench. They are members of a church youth group conducting a Bible-reading marathon.

Edison seeks prosecution of meter cheaters

Nearly all the firms caught tampering with Commonwealth Edison Co. electric meters have repaid the company, but the firm still wants the largest energy thieves prosecuted.

James J. O'Connor, Edison executive vice president, Monday said the firm has collected about $900,000 of the estimated $5 million in electrical energy billings lost because of tampering this year. He emphasized the firm's desire to have the most flagrant abusers prosecuted for theft.

Since The Herald first reported instances of meter tampering in August, all information about the tampering has been turned over to Chicago, county, state and federal authorities, O'Connor said. He said information included in Herald stories on the practice has been "valuable" in the company's investigation.

"THIS IS THE situation — you can either sweep the whole thing under the carpet or you can give it full publicity," he said. "We're doing everything possible to stop it because the consumer is the one who is really suffering from it."

In August the Herald disclosed that a man calling himself John Paul Jones was offering to tamper with electric meters in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and other suburbs. Jones offered to "fix" the meters of businesses, making them run more slowly and record less energy usage.

Company and law enforcement officials believe the meter fixing is the work of organized rings.

A DuPage County man, William Pihos, is the only figure in the scheme to be indicted to date. The case is being prosecuted by the Illinois Attorney General's office at the request of the DuPage County State's Attorney.

NO DATE FOR Pihos' trial has been set. He is charged with theft.

The U.S. Attorney office also is involved in the investigation. Susan Conlon, assistant U.S. attorney, Monday said the matter is before a federal grand jury.

She would neither confirm nor deny reports that the records of several large fast-food and grocery chains have been subpoenaed in connection with the grand jury probe.

O'Connor said about 75 per cent of the 2,518 suspect electric meters are residential, the rest commercial and industrial. He said the greatest dollar loss is from those businesses, particularly restaurants which are among the largest users of electricity.

THE SPOKESMAN said nearly all those approached by the company for apparently tampering with their meters have reimbursed the company for the energy used on a prorated basis, but none admit any guilt.

"In most cases when we discover this, we demand full restitution. Usually there is no admission of guilt, but no reluctance to pay," O'Connor said.

He said the company will not prosecute residential users if they pay their bills and "if the amount is not too high." He said the large commercial users should be prosecuted.

Edison currently uses a computer to detect large variations in electric bills which might be the result of tampering. The computer is programmed to provide a list of those bills which vary by 35 per cent or more from previous billings. More than 9,300 meters have been checked since the company began its own investigation in June. A third of those apparently were fixed.

Brown to start work on defense cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense secretary-designate Harold Brown soon will move into temporary quarters at the Pentagon so he can start work on Jimmy Carter's pledge to trim defense spending in next year's budget, transition officials said Monday.

Brown Monday made his first visit to the defense headquarters since he was named to the Cabinet. It was a quick stop that became known only after he departed for a gathering of the President-elect's top appointees at St. Simons, Ga.

Brown and his deputy, former Coca-Cola executive Charles W. Duncan Jr., met with Defense Sec. Donald H. Rumsfeld for about 30 minutes and also called briefly on Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

TEMPORARY OFFICE space was being made available for Brown until the transfer of power Jan. 20. Officials said the former Air Force secretary in the Johnson administration would probably move in next week after winding up his duties as president of the California Institute of Technology.

Carter said at a news conference last week he would try to honor his pledge to cut defense spending by $5 billion to $7 billion in his first budget, but left unclear whether he was referring to the spending plan for fiscal 1978 that President Ford will submit before he leaves office.

But sources on the Carter transition team said a major part of Brown's early efforts will be to "project" defense costs for Ford's 1978 budget to see where they can be trimmed.

"He is going to try to get at that beast as it moves past him," one source said.

THE SOURCE SAID figures of the defense budget, which reportedly total about $123 billion, have not yet been made available to the Carter team, but Brown will try to complete major changes by March 15, the date Congress set for its first budget resolution.

One area Brown will look at is personnel costs of the all-volunteer military force that comprises about 55 per cent of defense spending, sources said.

The second major focus of Brown's attention in the next few weeks will be in filling Pentagon jobs. There are some 250 senior appointed posts at the Defense Dept.

Fighting comes to halt as aldermen honor Daley

With the Chicago Symphony playing the hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah" in the background, the Chicago City Council honored the late Mayor Richard J. Daley Monday in a special session at City Hall.

The scramble to replace Daley, who died at age 74 a week ago from a heart attack, was forgotten briefly with the 48 sitting aldermen and 600 invited guests paying tribute to the mayor who served for 21 years.

Earlier Monday, Chicago's 11-year-old Civic Center, an $86 million, 30-story steel and glass building, was renamed the Richard J. Daley Center. The adjoining plaza was renamed the Richard J. Daley Plaza.

The Chicago Public Building Commission took the action on the resolution of George W. Dunne, the Cook County Board chairman, who replaced Daley as chairman of the building commission and has been mentioned as his successor as chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee or as mayor.

A PHOTOGRAPH of Daley draped in purple and black sat on an easel in front of the city council chambers while the aldermen unanimously adopted a lengthy resolution praising Daley and expressing sympathy to his family.

It said in part:

"Whereas Richard J. Daley was respected and admired by citizens in every nation for his ability as an administrator under whose leadership Chicago became the 'city that works.' He loved his native Chicago and her people as a father loves a child; he understood the city and was constantly aware of the heartbeat within it; he knew her people, their dreams, difficulties, ambitions and vowed to provide a maximum opportunity for every citizen . . ."

Wilson Frost, president pro tem of the City Council, presided over the special session and sat quietly while Ald. Michael Bilandic, his chief rival for the acting mayor's job, involked Shakespeare in his praise of Daley.

"His life was gentle, and the elements

"So mixed in him that nature might stand up

"And to say to all the world, "This was a man.' "

The council meets Tuesday to pick an acting mayor who will serve until a general election can be held within six months.

plies to draft evaders. His statements so far indicate deserters would have to undergo a case-by-case consideration and prove they left the military because of genuine opposition to the war.

Ford originally announced his amnesty program in a speech to a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago and later extended that program beyond its original deadline into early 1975.

Ford repeatedly refused to alter his position during this year's election campaign, maintaining that he had given draft resisters a fair chance to regain their standing in society and saw no need for anything more.

Edison seeks prosecution of meter cheaters

Nearly all the firms caught tampering with Commonwealth Edison Co. electric meters have repaid the company, but the firm still wants the largest energy thieves prosecuted.

James J. O'Connor, Edison executive vice president, Monday said the firm has collected about $900,000 of the estimated $5 million in electrical energy billings lost because of tampering this year. He emphasized the firm's desire to have the most flagrant abusers prosecuted for theft.

Since The Herald first reported instances of meter tampering in August, all information about the tampering has been turned over to Chicago, county, state and federal authorities, O'Connor said. He said information included in Herald stories on the practice has been "valuable" in the company's investigation.

"THIS IS THE situation — you can either sweep the whole thing under the carpet or you can give it full publicity," he said. "We're doing everything possible to stop it because the consumer is the one who is really suffering from it."

In August the Herald disclosed that a man calling himself John Paul Jones was offering to tamper with electric meters in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and other suburbs. Jones offered to "fix" the meters of businesses, making them run more slowly and record less energy usage.

Company and law enforcement officials believe the meter fixing is the work of organized rings.

A DuPage County man, William Pihos, is the only figure in the scheme to be indicted to date. The case is being prosecuted by the Illinois Attorney General's office at the request of the DuPage County State's Attorney.

NO DATE FOR Pihos' trial has been set. He is charged with theft.

The U.S. Attorney office also is involved in the investigation. Susan Conlon, assistant U.S. attorney, Monday said the matter is before a federal grand jury.

She would neither confirm nor deny reports that the records of several large fast-food and grocery chains have been subpoenaed in connection with the grand jury probe.

O'Connor said about 75 per cent of the 2,518 suspect electric meters are residential, the rest commercial and industrial. He said the greatest dollar loss is from those businesses, particularly restaurants which are among the largest users of electricity.

THE SPOKESMAN said nearly all those approached by the company for apparently tampering with their meters have reimbursed the company for the energy used on a prorated basis, but none admit any guilt.

"In most cases when we discover this, we demand full restitution. Usually there is no admission of guilt, but no reluctance to pay," O'Connor said.

He said the company will not prosecute residential users if they pay their bills and "if the amount is not too high." He said the large commercial users should be prosecuted.

Edison currently uses a computer to detect large variations in electric bills which might be the result of tampering. The computer is programmed to provide a list of those bills which vary by 35 per cent or more from previous billings. More than 9,300 meters have been checked since the company began its own investigation in June. A third of those apparently were fixed.

Brown to start work on defense cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense secretary-designate Harold Brown soon will move into temporary quarters at the Pentagon so he can start work on Jimmy Carter's pledge to trim defense spending in next year's budget, transition officials said Monday.

Brown Monday made his first visit to the defense headquarters since he was named to the Cabinet. It was a quick stop that became known only after he departed for a gathering of the President-elect's top appointees at St. Simons, Ga.

Brown and his deputy, former Coca-Cola executive Charles W. Duncan Jr., met with Defense Sec. Donald H. Rumsfeld for about 30 minutes and also called briefly on Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

TEMPORARY OFFICE space was being made available for Brown until the transfer of power Jan. 20. Officials said the former Air Force secretary in the Johnson administration would probably move in next week after winding up his duties as president of the California Institute of Technology.

Carter said at a news conference last week he would try to honor his pledge to cut defense spending by $5 billion to $7 billion in his first budget, but left unclear whether he was referring to the spending plan for fiscal 1978 that President Ford will submit before he leaves office.

But sources on the Carter transition team said a major part of Brown's early efforts will be to "project" defense costs for Ford's 1978 budget to see where they can be trimmed.

"He is going to try to get at that beast as it moves past him," one source said.

THE SOURCE SAID figures of the defense budget, which reportedly total about $123 billion, have not yet been made available to the Carter team, but Brown will try to complete major changes by March 15, the date Congress set for its first budget resolution.

One area Brown will look at is personnel costs of the all-volunteer military force that comprises about 55 per cent of defense spending, sources said.

The second major focus of Brown's attention in the next few weeks will be in filling Pentagon jobs. There are some 250 senior appointed posts at the Defense Dept.

Fighting comes to halt as aldermen honor Daley

With the Chicago Symphony playing the hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah" in the background, the Chicago City Council honored the late Mayor Richard J. Daley Monday in a special session at City Hall.

The scramble to replace Daley, who died at age 74 a week ago from a heart attack, was forgotten briefly with the 48 sitting aldermen and 600 invited guests paying tribute to the mayor who served for 21 years.

Earlier Monday, Chicago's 11-year-old Civic Center, an $86 million, 30-story steel and glass building, was renamed the Richard J. Daley Center. The adjoining plaza was renamed the Richard J. Daley Plaza.

The Chicago Public Building Commission took the action on the resolution of George W. Dunne, the Cook County Board chairman, who replaced Daley as chairman of the building commission and has been mentioned as his successor as chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee or as mayor.

A PHOTOGRAPH of Daley draped in purple and black sat on an easel in front of the city council chambers while the aldermen unanimously adopted a lengthy resolution praising Daley and expressing sympathy to his family.

It said in part:

"Whereas Richard J. Daley was respected and admired by citizens in every nation for his ability as an administrator under whose leadership Chicago became the 'city that works.' He loved his native Chicago and her people as a father loves a child; he understood the city and was constantly aware of the heartbeat within it; he knew her people, their dreams, difficulties, ambitions and vowed to provide a maximum opportunity for every citizen . . ."

Wilson Frost, president pro tem of the City Council, presided over the special session and sat quietly while Ald. Michael Bilandic, his chief rival for the acting mayor's job, involked Shakespeare in his praise of Daley.

"His life was gentle, and the elements

"So mixed in him that nature might stand up

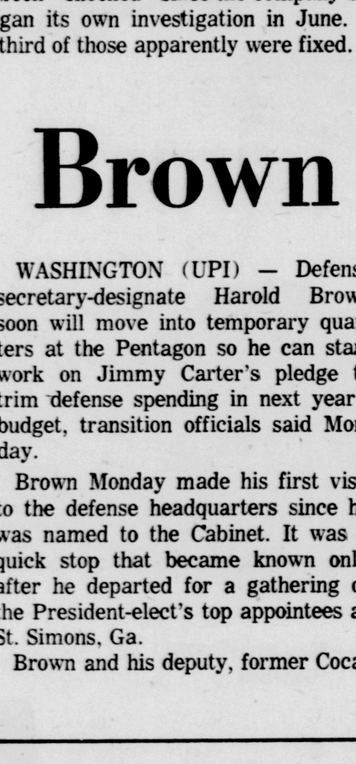

"And to say to all the world, "This was a man.' "

The council meets Tuesday to pick an acting mayor who will serve until a general election can be held within six months.

The President, chuckling, declined for a moment to identify Chafee. "We just picked her up on the slopes," he said, adding: "and if you're not up to date on these things, I'm not going to tell you."

plies to draft evaders. His statements so far indicate deserters would have to undergo a case-by-case consideration and prove they left the military because of genuine opposition to the war.

Ford originally announced his amnesty program in a speech to a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago and later extended that program beyond its original deadline into early 1975.

Ford repeatedly refused to alter his position during this year's election campaign, maintaining that he had given draft resisters a fair chance to regain their standing in society and saw no need for anything more.

New lottery tickets go on sale Jan. 4

A new $1 Illinois State Lottery game, the Grand Prix, was announced Monday with prizes scaling up to $25,000 at a drawing each Thursday. Tickets for the new game will go on sale Jan. 4. "The new Grand Prix game will award all its prizes ranging from $5 up to $25,000 every Thursday," Lottery Superintendent Ralph Batch said.

Batch also announced weekly drawings will be consolidated and conducted on Thursday beginning Jan. 13. In the past, drawings in the 50-cent games were on Thursday and $1 drawings on Friday. The face of each $1 ticket in the new game will contain eight Grand Prix cars, each containing two, four or five digit numbers.

Every Thursday, the lottery will select three two-digit numbers, one four-digit number and one five-digit number and a color with winning totals depending on matches. A player matching the five-digit number and the color wins $25,000. Lottery officials said with the new game, three lottery games will be operating simultaneously. They are the 50-cent, $1 million Bonanza game, the $1 Presidents instant game and the new $1 Grand Prix game.

Minister, daughter slain

An Illinois minister and his daughter were shot to death Christmas Day by bullets fired into their faces at point-blank range, Mexican police said Monday. John O. Gharst, 69, of Edgewood, Ill., a minister and former teacher, and his daughter, Loreli Gharst Brown, 43, a school teacher in the Arcola, Ill., area, were killed. A police highway patrol found their bodies slumped in the front seat of their red and white compact car with Illinois license plates on a main road 80 miles east of Mazatlan, Mexico.

The slayings were unusual in that nothing appeared to have been stolen as well as the manner in which they were carried out, police said. Gharst and his daughter were on an automobile tour of Mexico and were believed to have been driving from a Mazatlan resort to Durango, about 200 miles northeast.

Black power play seen in legislature

A Republican state legislator warned Monday that black Democratic lawmakers may fashion a power play to help elect a Republican house speaker if Chicago Ald. Wilson Frost is passed up for acting mayor when the city council votes today. "Blacks in the state house are seriously thinking about playing the same kind of political trick in Springfield that white city aldermen are playing against Frost," said Rep. Charles E. Gaines, a black from Chicago.

Although he has received no firm commitments from any of the 14 black Democratic legislators, Gaines said more than six of them — the number necessary to swing the speaker of the house election to a Republican — have indicated interest in the idea. The vote for house speaker has been scheduled for Jan. 12 at Springfield. Frost is president pro tem of the city council and has contended he automatically became acting mayor when Richard J. Daley died last Monday.

Plow, salt, seed used to save inn

A lawyer used a small snow plow, 300 pounds of rock salt and a half ton of bird seed Monday in his efforts to save the Stockyard Inn from demolition. John Bolchert, a Skokie lawyer, has been making telephone calls to news media and holding news conferences since last week in an effort to save the old inn and turn it into a museum. Monday, Bolchert said he took the snow blower he gave his wife for Christmas to the inn on the South Side and wrote in the snow, "Please save the Stockyard Inn now" in big block letters.

"The wind kept blowing and it didn't look so good," he said. Bolchert said he then bought 300 pounds of rock salt to "burn" his message in the snow. Finally, he said, he planned to buy 500 pounds of bird seed to see if he could get off-white pigeons and other birds to mark his plea.

Hospitals turn to self-insurance management has looked at the wrong things, in my opinion," said Malcolm MacCoun, president of Northwest Community Hospital.

"There is no way an insurance company can come in here and tell us how to reduce our risks. There is no pattern to the kind of things we get sued for, no pattern that indicates a major breakdown in any one system or department," he said.

Both Northwest and Holy Family hospitals studied the possibility of joining a captive insurance company through the North Suburban Assoc. of Health Resources, an organization of health care providers that eventually concluded that group self-insurance was not feasible.

"WE STUDIED THE captive system through North Suburban, and we studied other self-insurance routes, too," said Sister M. Amata, president of Holy Family. "If we had not gotten the coverage we did from Argonaut, we definitely would have had to go to self-insurance."

Holy Family's yearly malpractice insurance premium increased from $385 per bed to $1,558 per bed in the summer of 1975, despite the fact that there has been only one malpractice judgment against the hospital, "and that one was not very large by today's standards," Sister Amata said.

All the hospital officials said that if there is actual negligence for which the hospital is responsible patients should be compensated.

"If there is negligence, if a mistake has been made, we should settle it," Jacobsen said. "It's the high percentage of nuisance claims that I object to."

The biggest malpractice settlement paid by Alexian Brothers Medical Center has been $25,000, Fisher said.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY has never had a court judgment against it in a malpractice suit, MacCoun said. He said the largest malpractice settlement the hospital has made was $7,500.

Lutheran General paid a $150,000 damage claim only because the doctor who was sued did not have enough insurance to pay the total judgment against him, Jacobsen said.

Hospital officials believe the improving quality of health care ironically may be a contributer to the malpractice crisis.

"In the last 30 years there have been tremendous strides in medicine, and, through the media, people know about them," MacCoun said. "In some cases I think the patient may have come to expect care that is simply unrealistic. We have been the victims of our own success.

"Now, I believe, we're approaching a point where maybe people recognize that, for all the progress, doctors can't cure everything," MacCoun said.

JACOBSEN AGREED. "People have come to expect miracles, only we're not miracle workers," he said. "Yes, doctors have tremendous technological advances at their hands, but they're still human beings. People have come to believe that putting their health in the hands of physicians and health care institutions guarantees a good rsult. We need to tell them we can't make that guarantee," he said.

"I don't feel that people have come to expect too much, but they have come to expect a great deal," Sister Amata said. "Every hospital is expected to have everything it takes to save a life."

Patient expectations and the constant threat of malpractice lawsuits have led doctors and hospitals to practice "defensive medicine," to do more laboratory tests, take more X-rays than they might have in the past — in short to try to cover every medical contingency in a case.

"We rather feared for the patient, at first, because when doctors and hospitals have to work under the threat of malpractice, they can wind up on over-alert," Sister Amata said. "We began to practice defensively. We will continue to do so. I don't think that condition is ever going to go back to what it was before."

"THERE'S NO QUESTION that there's much more acute awareness of the damage that can be done to a patient," MacCoun said. "No physician practicing today will say he is doing things the same way he was several years ago."

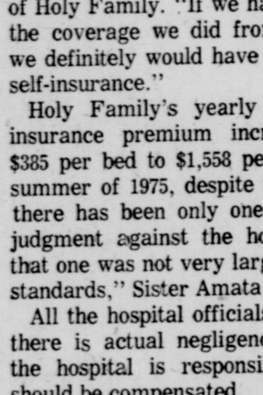

But the malpractice menace has not prevented any Northwest suburban hospitals from offering increasingly more sophisticated medical services, despite the increased malpractice liability in doing so, or from continuing to expand to meet the community's health care needs, administrators said.

"We operate a high-risk nursery, for example, and that's one of the highest risks for malpractice that there is," Jacobsen said.

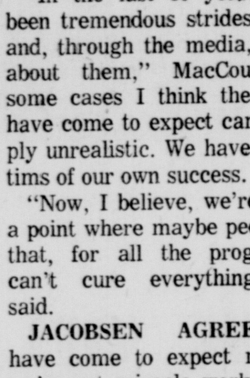

"It's always in the back of everybody's mind — that we have this problem we haven't had before called malpractice. But I can't say it has ever entered into a hospital decision about whether to supply a service. There would never be any progress if that were the case," MacCoun said.

CHRISTMAS REFUNDS and exchanges were the order of the day Sunday and Monday, but shoppers did not show up at the major department stores in the numbers of past years. Vesna Spasojcevic seeks a refund on a Christmas gift which didn't quite suit her at the Randhurst Ward's store.

Defective toys to gaudy shirts

Hustle to return misfits begins

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The hustle to return misfit Christmas gifts is on, but shoppers aren't turning out in their usual post-holiday droves this year, much to the relief of department store employes.

There were plenty of persons Sunday and Monday who flocked to area shopping centers with bags and boxes of rejects in hand, who obviously had lost some of the energy and spirit that marked bustling holiday crowds late last week.

They returned everything from a Bionic Woman doll whose arms had fallen off to a gaudy, slightly large blouse that had been part of a husband's last minute, shot-in-the-dark shopping effort before Christmas.

STORES WERE granting refunds mostly for clothing that was the wrong size and defective toys, but each was getting its share of novelty gifts returned.

There were just enough exchanges and refunds being made to keep sales personnel at Randhurst and Woodfield shopping center stores hoping, but the influx wasn't so great as in past years. No extra empllyes were hired, and few special cashier booths were set up.

"We're busy, but we're not giving all our money back. But, we seem to have less gift items being exchanged and returned this year than in years past after Christmas. Then again, we have a few weeks of this left," said Mary Lewis, manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co., Woodfield.

Most store officials attributed the low turnout to predictions of heavy snowfall Monday and the fact that holiday-weary shoppers preferred to stay home Sunday, the day after Christmas, in front of the television set watching football games.

"Last year Christmas was on a Thursday and the day after, Friday, people were just in more of a mood to go back out into the stores again," said Rich McLaughlin, general merchandising manager for J. C. Penney, Woodfield.

MANAGERS OF SOME large department stores reported between 250 and 400 returns Sunday and Monday, which resulted in anywhere from $3,000 to $7,000 in cash refunds. However, most cash refunds are less than $50, they said.

Department and specialty stores expect a certain percentage of exchanges or refunds after Christmas, which presents no real loss but results in a lot of paper work and aggravation for the merchandiser and the customer.

"The hassle comes when people either lose or forget to save their receipts. For a purchase over $5, without a receipt, we can give only gift certificates or send the customer a refund check through the mail. If they have their receipt, they get cash in return," said Colleen Kelly, cash refund cashier at Montgomery Ward, Randhurst.

The post-Christmas refund process is about the same in most large stores. Gifts are returned to the departments where they were purchased and an even exchange is made or a refund slip is filled out. Customers are sent to a central point in the store, most times the service desk, for cash refunds or gift certificates. Few requests are turned down.

"THE SYSTEM SEEMS to be a lot faster than before. I've worked here for three years and there used to be more red tape that customers had to go through when returning gifts," Ms. Kelly said.

But, improvements in most store's refund system over the years somehow don't take the bite out of the chore for some persons. There is a crab somewhere in every exchange line in every store, sales clerks say.

"I don't think it's so bad returning gifts. It's easier than it used to be and I know. Every year I have perfume or some kinds of clothes to exchange," said Mary Gates, Mount Prospect, who carried a shopping bag of items that needed returning.

Many women standing in cash refund lines admitted they would use their refunds to buy more clothes or appliances. Some said they might even spend more money than they did before Christmas on sale items.

The wrong color, the wrong size, the wrong brand — they all were reasons given for returning gifts.

The only thing missing were the piped-in Christmas carols and conversations about what to buy a fussy aunt or indifferent grandparent. The conversation was a little different two days after Christmas.

"Now here's a cute blouse, I think I'll try this on. Now, why can't Harry pick out something like this instead of buying me that darned awful cologne for Christmas every year," one shopper said to another.

"I guess I don't really mind, because returning it gives me a chance to hit the sales after Christmas — that's when I really enjoy myself," she said.

Layaway, or laid-to-rest, gifts?

by LEA TONKIN

Short memories and busy holidays go hand in hand.

Just ask the persons who work as customer service representatives at suburban stores. Right now they're trying to figure out what to do with the layaway gifts forgetful shoppers left behind.

Clothing, watches and other gifts frequently are unclaimed by holiday shoppers who had asked sales personnel to set the items aside until they paid for the merchandise, said Denise Parras, service manager at the Korvettes department store, 10 W. Rand, Arlington Heights. "We send them notes. If they don't come in by a certain date, we put the items back on the shelf," she said.

THE "VERY SMALL percentage" of customers who failed to pick up layaway holiday gifts either forgot "or they found something similar at another store," Miss Parras said. She said a 50-cent service charge is levied on customers who don't buy layaway merchandise, although the rest of their deposit is refunded.

Some shoppers already have come back for layaway gifts at the Crawford department store in Rolling Meadows, said Karen Puckhaber. Although no penalty is levied on no-show customers, there is a two-week wait before layaway gifts are returned to stock.

"Normally, I'd say 95 per cent of all the layaway gifts are picked up," said David Spiegler, a manager at the Spiegler's Department Store, Des Plaines. "We do have to do a little phoning after Christmas."

Customers who order merchandise by telephone may forget they asked the store personnel to put clothing or other items on layaway, Spiegler said. "But it's rare that anyone who puts a down payment will forego it," he said.

Layaway is "a service we offer, and customers don't abuse it," Spiegler said. "If we call people about layaway merchandise and they say they'll come in by the end of the week, that's no problem."

Joanne Hayes at the Goldblatt Bros., Inc., store in the Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect, said, "It's surprising how many people forget layaway gifts." She solved the problem by calling customers a week before Christmas or the scheduled pickup date as a reminder. "And this year everyone picked them up," she said.

All on GOP ticket

Nine township officials declare reelection bids

Nine Wheeling Township incumbents have announced they will seek reslating on the GOP ticket for the township election in April.

Heading the list is Ethel Kolerus, 53, township supervisor, who is finishing her second term.

Mrs. Kolerus also serves as president of the supervisor's division of the Township Officials of Illinois. She has been a Mount Prospect resident for 22 years.

The four members of the board of auditors said they also plan to seek reelection on the Republican ticket.

MERLE WILLIS, 77, Wheeling, will seek a fourth term on the board. Willis is a retired electrical contractor and has served on the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce board and the Wheeling Village Board.

Jack Gilligan, 45, will try for a second term on the board. A resident of Prospect Heights, Gilligan is a senior research engineer with the IIT Research Institute. He has been active in the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. and the Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee.

Buffalo Grove resident Bill Reid, 43, also is completing his first term on the board of auditors and will run again. Reid is a coordinator of research, testing and data processing for High School Dist. 214.

Ray DeMaertelaere, 37, Arlington Heights, plans to run for a second term on the board. He is a lawyer and has served as a trustee and president of the Wheeling Township Dist. 21 Board of Education.

HIGHWAY COMR. Arthur Olsen will seek a second term. Olsen, 51, Prospect Heights, was appointed highway commissioner to fill a vacancy before the 1973 election.

Marshall Theroux, 57, Arlington Heights, said he will run again as township assessor. Theroux has been township assessor since 1969.

Dorothy Hauff, 63, Arlington Heights, said she will seek reelection as township clerk. She has served as clerk for 27 years.

The position of tax collector, although not a functioning office any more, by law must be filled in April. Fremd Yonkers, 51, of Arlington Heights, said he will seek reelection to the post. Yonkers also is Wheeling Township Republican Organization committeeman.

YONKERS SAID the incumbents and others interested in running on the GOP slate must appear before a GOP screening committee. The committee will meet during the first two weeks of January.

It will make its recommendations at a Republican party caucus Feb. 1, when the GOP slate will be selected.

The deadline for all candidates to file nominating petitions for township office is Jan. 31.

Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman Donald Norman could not be reached for comment on the Democratic party's plans for the April election. The Democrats did not run a slate in 1973.

Planners study ideas for convention center

The possibility of building a multimillion dollar convention center with state funds is being studied by the Arlington Heights Planning Dept.

Although there are no plans to apply for a grant from the Metropolitan Exposition and Auditorium Fund, which would provide 75 per cent of construction funds up to $20 million, Village Planner Joseph Kesler is looking into the possibility.

"The project is only being investigated," he said. "I'm just arming myself with facts in case it comes up. This is something I'm doing on my own for background information. I haven't talked to anyone else in the village administration about it yet."

VILLAGE PRES. James T. Ryan said he would approve the project if matching village funds are available. "Culturally, I'm all for it, but financially the funds available to the village have higher priorities right now," he said.

Several years ago the village studied the feasibility of building a convention center and determined the facility was needed but too expensive, Ryan said.

"The existence of this state fund might alter the situation, however," Ryan said. "I'm glad to see the planning department is keeping the question open."

The state has appropriated almost $75 million for similar projects in several cities and $17 million has been spent, said George Concour, assistant director for administration of the Illinois Dept. of Business and Economic Development, which administers the grants.

There is no application deadline and structural guidlines are vague, he said.

TO APPLY, the Cook County Board would have to form a Metropolitan Exposition Auditorium and Office Building Authority for the village, which could ask for the grant, Concour said.

The center could be built on land downtown, on property owned by Madison Square Garden Corp. adjacent to Arlington Park or elsewhere in the village, Kesler said.

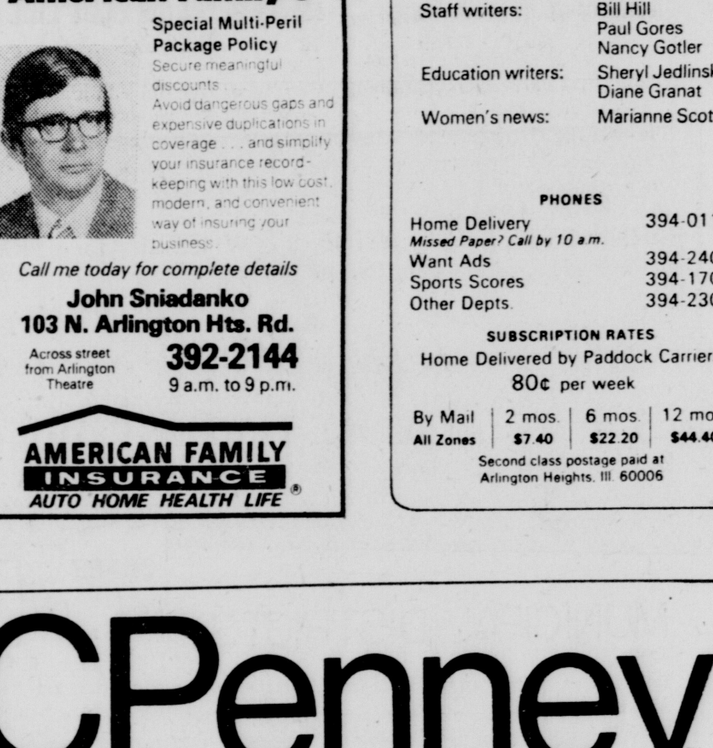

"Right now there are other priorities in the village, but a project like this is possible in the future," Kesler said.

CHRISTMAS REFUNDS and exchanges were the order of the day Sunday and Monday, but shoppers did not show up at the major department stores in the numbers of past years. Vesna Spasojcevic seeks a refund on a Christmas gift which didn't quite suit her at the Randhurst Ward's store.

Defective toys to gaudy shirts

Hustle to return misfits begins

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The hustle to return misfit Christmas gifts is on, but shoppers aren't turning out in their usual post-holiday droves this year, much to the relief of department store employes.

There were plenty of persons Sunday and Monday who flocked to area shopping centers with bags and boxes of rejects in hand, who obviously had lost some of the energy and spirit that marked bustling holiday crowds late last week.

They returned everything from a Bionic Woman doll whose arms had fallen off to a gaudy, slightly large blouse that had been part of a husband's last minute, shot-in-the-dark shopping effort before Christmas.

STORES WERE granting refunds mostly for clothing that was the wrong size and defective toys, but each was getting its share of novelty gifts returned.

There were just enough exchanges and refunds being made to keep sales personnel at Randhurst and Woodfield shopping center stores hoping, but the influx wasn't so great as in past years. No extra emplyes were hired, and few special cashier booths were set up.

"We're busy, but we're not giving all our money back. But, we seem to have less gift items being exchanged and returned this year than in years past after Christmas. Then again, we have a few weeks of this left," said Mary Lewis, manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co., Woodfield.

Most store officials attributed the low turnout to predictions of heavy snowfall Monday and the fact that holiday-weary shoppers preferred to stay home Sunday, the day after Christmas, in front of the television set watching football games.

"Last year Christmas was on a Thursday and the day after, Friday, people were just in more of a mood to go back out into the stores again," said Rich McLaughlin, general merchandising manager for J. C. Penney, Woodfield.

The answer man

Election expert is transitioned

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Campaign Answer Man has been transitioned. He has accepted a new position as the Washington Answer Man for occasional appearances in this space. Today, he is on hand wearing his new hat.

QUESTION: Welcome, sir. As an instantly seasoned observer of the Washington scene, how does the transition seem to you to be going?

ANSWER MAN: I am impressed by the speed with which the Carter people have acclimated themselves to Washington. Only yesterday, I found one of them taking his secretary to lunch at Sans Souci. And I spotted another fellow with Georgia plates on his car giving directions to a family of tourists from Delaware.

QUESTION: Does it seem to you that a lot of Georgians have come to Washington to work in the new administration?

ANSWER MAN: I have no reliable figures on that. However, I understand that the Census Bureau estimates that at the present rate of immigration Georgia will not lose more than one congressional seat in the 1980 enumeration.

QUESTION: Has the influx of Georgians had any effect on day to day life in Washington?

ANSWER MAN: Only for property owners around Sherman Circle. They're going to have to have their letterhead addresses changed to Beauregard Boulevard.

QUESTION: How are the Republicans in Washington adjusting to the change?

ANSWER MAN: Very well, I think. I spoke to one today who said he expected to hear any day that he had been appointed Curator of Antiquities at the Smithsonian. I was unable to contact the other one.

QUESTION: As you recall, President-elect Carter repeatedly pledged to reorganize the federal government if he was elected. Have you any clue how he will go about that rather considerable task?

ANSWER MAN: It will be a phased process. The first dramatic step will be to change the name plates on the desks. Then I am told there will be a massive reassignment of parking spaces. After that, I expect the administration to appoint a commission to study the effect of the changes already made.

QUESTION: With all this coming and going, how are the Washington lobbyists bearing up? Who are they wining and dining during the transition?

ANSWER MAN: Each other. Last week I saw Coal and Oil getting lit up together. I understand that Railroads and Airlines also have been seen flying low at several Georgetown bistros.

QUESTION: And how about the diplomatic community? Are they gearing up for the change?

ANSWER MAN: This is a trying time for those people. Embassy gardeners are pulling out the Michigan tulips and planting kudzu. Ambassadors are having denim cutaways fitted. Chefs are competing for new variations of grits and turnip greens, with the maestro at the Italian embassy already far ahead with his Georgia Pecan lasagna.

QUESTION: And what about catchwords? We had "the bottom line" and "in this time frame" during the Republican administrations. When will the Carter people make their mark on Washington conversation?

ANSWER MAN: When they see the Ford budget. I expect the phrase "that ain't peanuts" will be heard all over town.

The way we see it

Court lines need to be redrawn

We are pleased that Chief Judge John S. Boyle of the Cook County Circuit Court has thrown his weight solidly behind efforts to build mini-court centers that will serve residents of the Northwest suburbs.

Judge Boyle, in a letter to County Board Pres. George W. Dunne, urged construction of mini-centers in the second and third judicial districts (see map) which serve the northern tier of townships, from Lake Michigan to the county's western border in Barrington.

We have previously urged location of the mini-centers in suburban areas; Cook County is simply too large, too congested and too populous to serve all residents through centrally located courts.

However, at the same time the County Board considers locating mini-centers in Districts 2 and 3, it should weigh the advantages of changing the district boundaries.

District 2 stretches along the northern tier of townships from Evanston to Palatine. Stretching out in a line below it is District 3.

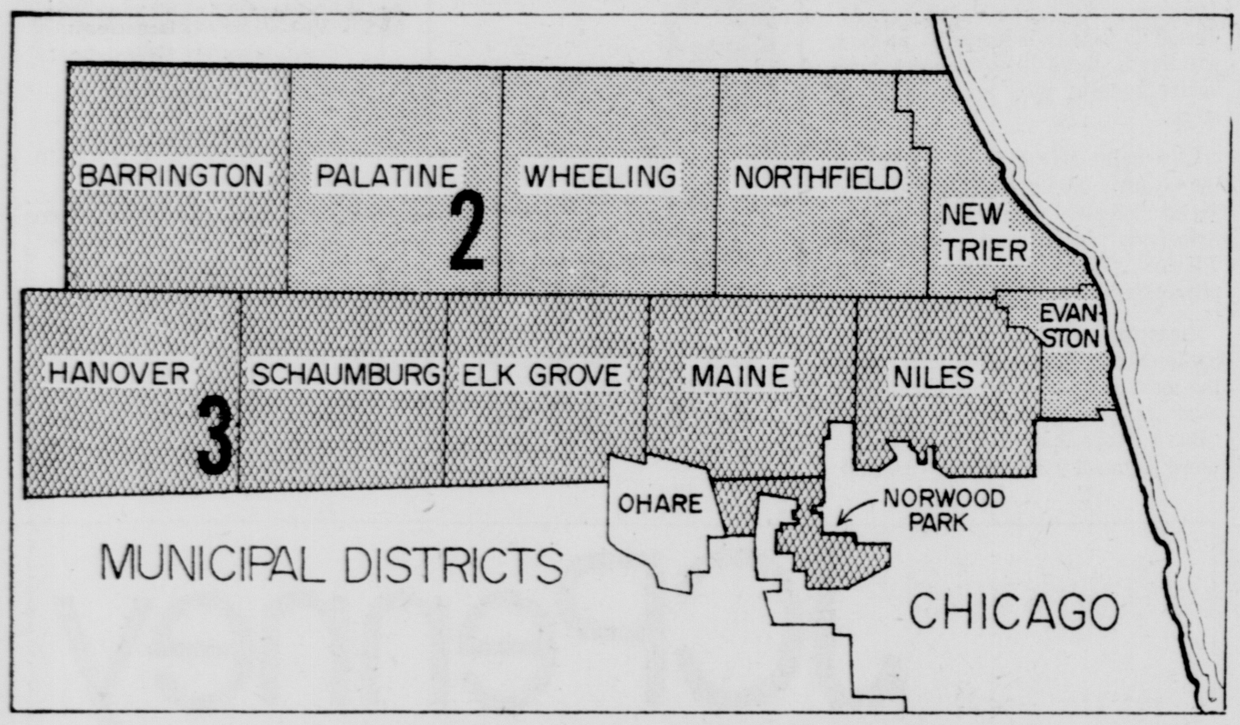

Mini-centers in the geographic and population centers of these two districts probably would be within a few miles of each other and probably would be a long distance from many residents of both districts.

We think two compact districts can be drawn — one essentially North suburban and one Northwest suburban — which would make more sense than the present districts. And a mini-center located in each would be accessible to more residents of both areas.

In the Northwest suburbs, a site which has been under consideration is ideally located at the southwest corner of Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue. On the eastern boundary of Palatine Township, it enjoys easy access via several major routes, including Ill. Rte. 53.

There is a real need to relieve our often over-burdened judicial system and to streamline the suburban judicial process. A mini-center in the area is essential, and so is a redistricting of the area.

We hope the County Board supports Judge Boyle's request and authorizes planning of the mini-centers. And we hope this planning is tied in closely to better drawn district lines.

Court Districts 2, 3 are not compact

Tollway entrance gets two comments

I would like to commend Paddock Publications for its editorial of Dec. 15, 1976, regarding the need for a full interchange at Arlington Heights Road and the Northwest Tollway.

On July 12th of this year, I wrote the Illinois Toll Highway Authority on this matter. Its response was that the first priority of the authority was maintenance of the mainline roadway. New interchanges have second priority.

I support the efforts of the Arlington and Elk Grove Chambers of Commerce urging the Toll Highway Authority to reconsider its priorities and construct a full interchange.

This effort will be successful if all citizens in the surrounding communities write to the Toll Highway Authority to express their interest in a full interchange. The address is Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, 2001 West 22nd Street, Oak Brook, Ill. 60521, Donald C. Zimmer, Chief Engineer.

Just wondering. Could it be that the toll road authority that constructed only half an interchange at Arlington Heights Road are a bunch of half wits who are working at their full capacity?

Mayor's pay increase needs reconsideration

Simply crossing a line can make the difference in how you're treated as mayor.

For example, the new mayor of Des Plaines next spring will receive a salary of $32,500 which is $7,500 more than the current mayor earns. Meanwhile, across the city line to the west, Mount Prospect's new mayor will make the same salary his predecessor has made since 1969 — $2,000. The reason for the huge difference in salaries between the two municipalities is Des Plaines has a full-time mayor while Mount Prospect's is part-time.

But that consideration aside, the mayors of both towns have certain basic responsibilities. Were their common duties separated, the Des Plaines mayor would merit higher pay.

Still, Mount Prospect has the lowest paid part-time mayor among larger villages in this area. For example, the mayors of Palatine and Arlington Heights earn $3,600 and $4,800 respectively for their part-time duties.

Outgoing Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert proposed the pay increase in his village. He also proposed a raise for village trustees and the village clerk.

Ironically, the trustees fall in line with other area officials in similar posts, and a proposed $600 increase would have made them among the area's highest paid with $1,800.

The Mount Prospect trustees were overly conservative in voting down an increase in the mayor's salary and should reconsider the issue. While part-time mayors are not in their jobs for the money, accepting a reward of $2,000 strikes us more as martyrdom than public service when one considers the demands on the mayor of Mount Prospect.

The Plains, Ga. version of Deja Vu

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly everyone has experienced the eerie sensation called "deja vu." In its most common manifestation, you go somewhere for the first time and get a feeling you've been there before.

Recently, I've been having flashes of what might be called premature deja vu. I don't even have to go to a certain place to feel I've been there.

The place is Plains, Ga. I've never laid eyes on the joint. Yet it's beginning to seem as familiar to me as my own hometown.

I asked a psychologist what could cause this form of deja vu. He said it might be the result of reading approximately 5,000 color stories about Plains.

He said case histories in his files indicate that after people pass the 4,000 color story mark they have trouble separating vicariousness from reality.

He must be right because just seeing the name of Plains in print gives me a strong sense of nostalgia. All at once I am strolling down memory lane, past the old depot, past the peanut warehouse, past Billy's filling station, Miss Lillian's house and all the rest.

Billy and a couple of the good ol' boys are standing around a gas pump getting beered up. A couple of other good ol' boys are standing around a beer pump getting gassed. Billy has an air gauge in his hand in case anybody comes by whose tires need checking.

I wave and ask Billy how things are going. Billy wipes his mouth on his sleeve and says fine. He says it don't make no nevermind about Jimmy getting elected and all. He says he's not about to change his life style for nobody, president or not. Nobody.

I notice that Billy is saying this without moving his lips. He has a tape recording in the gas pump.

I move on down by the Baptist Church. Choir practice is breaking up. A couple of altos are arguing over a recipe for spoonbread.

One says it needs a l'il dash of honeysuckle. The other says it's better with a l'il dash of pellagra.

Across the street, Miss Lillian is moseying along the sidewalk with a mess of collards in her apron and a mess of okra in her sunbonnet. I wave and tell Miss Lillian howdy.

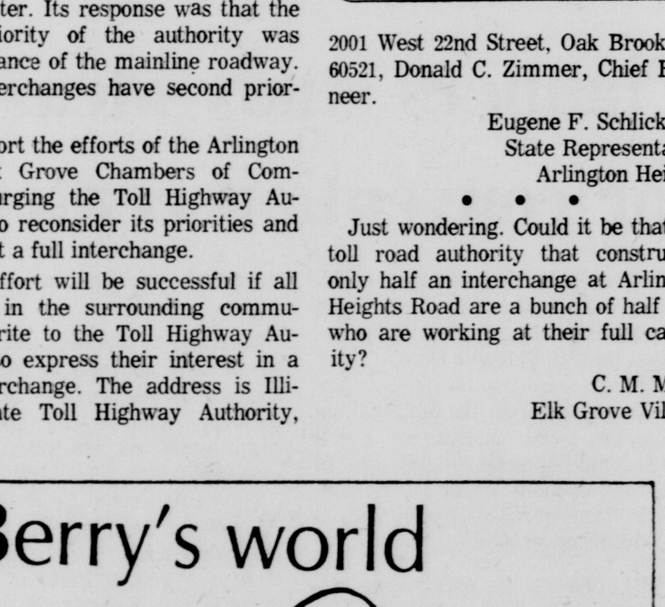

Miss Lillian beckons me over and confides that she's thinking of joining the Marine Corps.

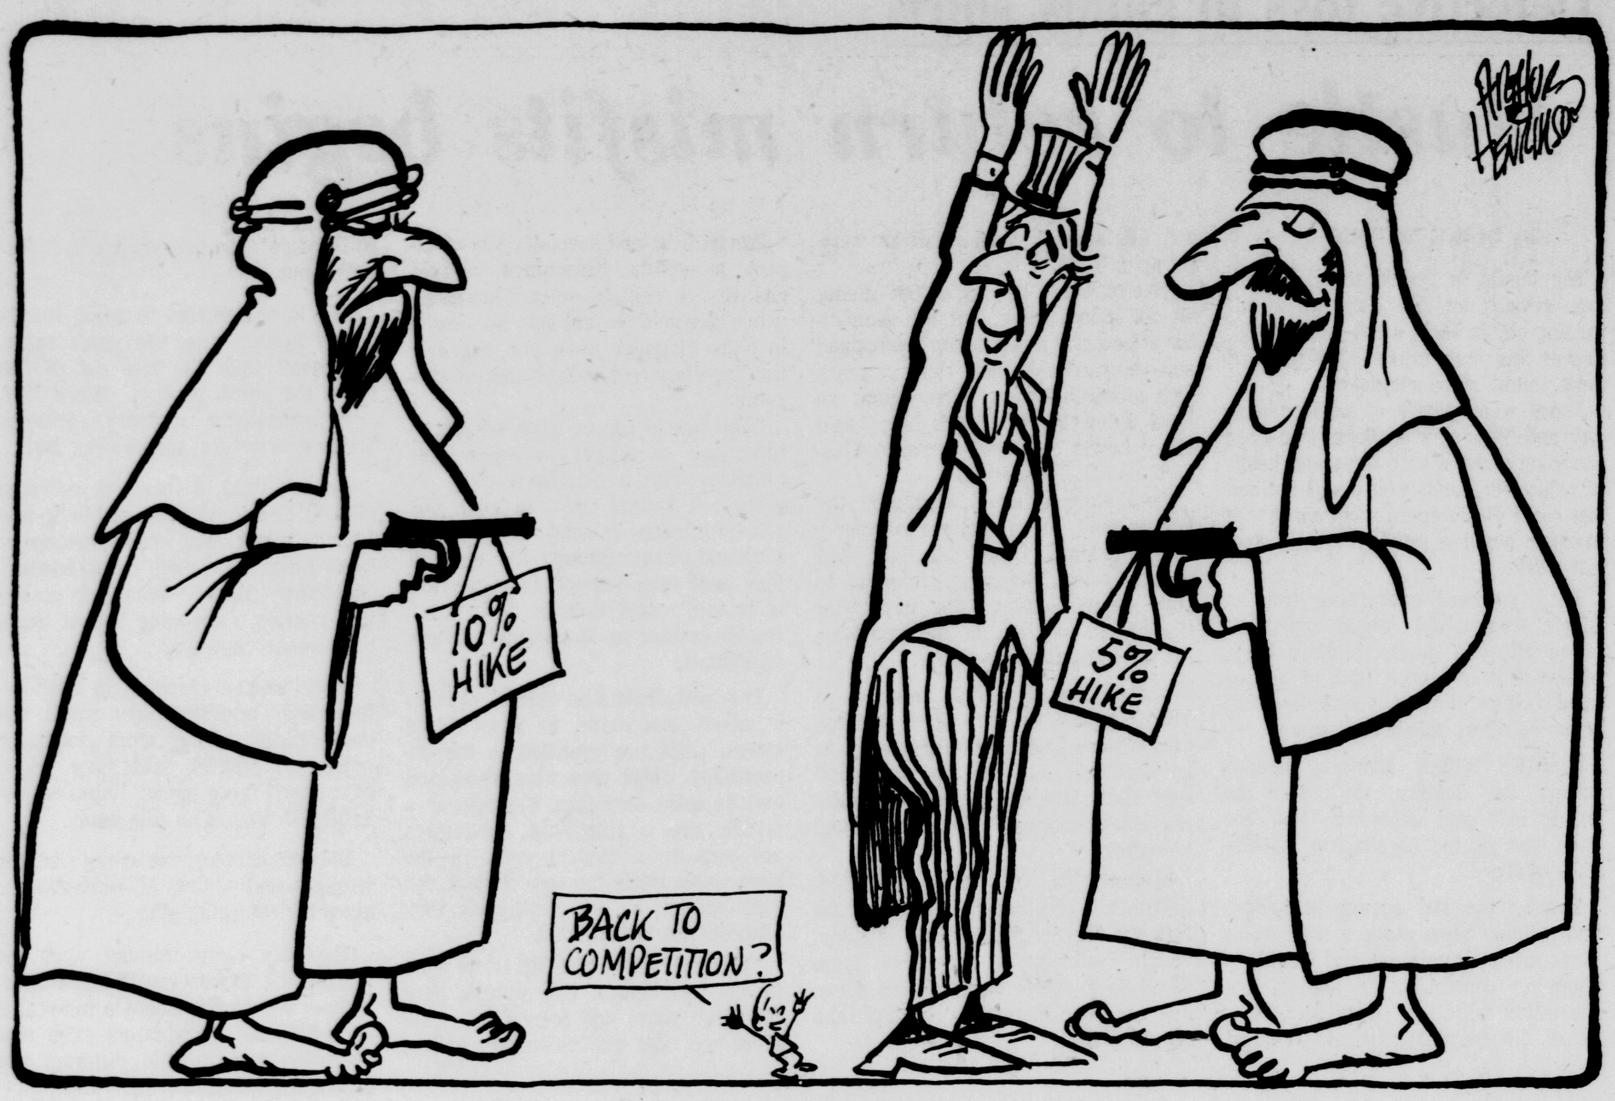

A turnip wagon rumbles by, pulled by a span of red neck mules. The driver went to school with Jimmy. His name is Stanislaus, a living contradiction of the legend that all of Jimmy's ex-schoolmates are named Bobby Joe.

The turnip wagon has a false bottom. In the Civil War, it was used to smuggle cornpone across Yankee lines.

I see all of this as clearly as if it were tomorrow.

The answer man

Election expert is transitioned

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Campaign Answer Man has been transitioned. He has accepted a new position as the Washington Answer Man for occasional appearances in this space. Today, he is on hand wearing his new hat.

QUESTION: Welcome, sir. As an instantly seasoned observer of the Washington scene, how does the transition seem to you to be going?

ANSWER MAN: I am impressed by the speed with which the Carter people have acclimated themselves to Washington. Only yesterday, I found one of them taking his secretary to lunch at Sans Souci. And I spotted another fellow with Georgia plates on his car giving directions to a family of tourists from Delaware.

QUESTION: Does it seem to you that a lot of Georgians have come to Washington to work in the new administration?

ANSWER MAN: I have no reliable figures on that. However, I understand that the Census Bureau estimates that at the present rate of immigration Georgia will not lose more than one congressional seat in the 1980 enumeration.

QUESTION: Has the influx of Georgians had any effect on day to day life in Washington?

ANSWER MAN: Only for property owners around Sherman Circle. They're going to have to have their letterhead addresses changed to Beauregard Boulevard.

QUESTION: How are the Republicans in Washington adjusting to the change?

ANSWER MAN: Very well, I think. I spoke to one today who said he expected to hear any day that he had been appointed Curator of Antiquities at the Smithsonian. I was unable to contact the other one.

QUESTION: As you recall, President-elect Carter repeatedly pledged to reorganize the federal government if he was elected. Have you any clue how he will go about that rather considerable task?

ANSWER MAN: It will be a phased process. The first dramatic step will be to change the name plates on the desks. Then I am told there will be a massive reassignment of parking spaces. After that, I expect the administration to appoint a commission to study the effect of the changes already made.

QUESTION: With all this coming and going, how are the Washington lobbyists bearing up? Who are they wining and dining during the transition?

ANSWER MAN: Each other. Last week I saw Coal and Oil getting lit up together. I understand that Railroads and Airlines also have been seen flying low at several Georgetown bistros.

QUESTION: And how about the diplomatic community? Are they gearing up for the change?

ANSWER MAN: This is a trying time for those people. Embassy gardeners are pulling out the Michigan tulips and planting kudzu. Ambassadors are having denim cutaways fitted. Chefs are competing for new variations of grits and turnip greens, with the maestro at the Italian embassy already far ahead with his Georgia Pecan lasagna.

QUESTION: And what about catchwords? We had "the bottom line" and "in this time frame" during the Republican administrations. When will the Carter people make their mark on Washington conversation?

ANSWER MAN: When they see the Ford budget. I expect the phrase "that ain't peanuts" will be heard all over town.

The way we see it

Court lines need to be redrawn

We are pleased that Chief Judge John S. Boyle of the Cook County Circuit Court has thrown his weight solidly behind efforts to build mini-court centers that will serve residents of the Northwest suburbs.

Judge Boyle, in a letter to County Board Pres. George W. Dunne, urged construction of mini-centers in the second and third judicial districts (see map) which serve the northern tier of townships, from Lake Michigan to the county's western border in Barrington.

We have previously urged location of the mini-centers in suburban areas; Cook County is simply too large, too congested and too populous to serve all residents through centrally located courts.

However, at the same time the County Board considers locating mini-centers in Districts 2 and 3, it should weigh the advantages of changing the district boundaries.

District 2 stretches along the northern tier of townships from Evanston to Palatine. Stretching out in a line below it is District 3.

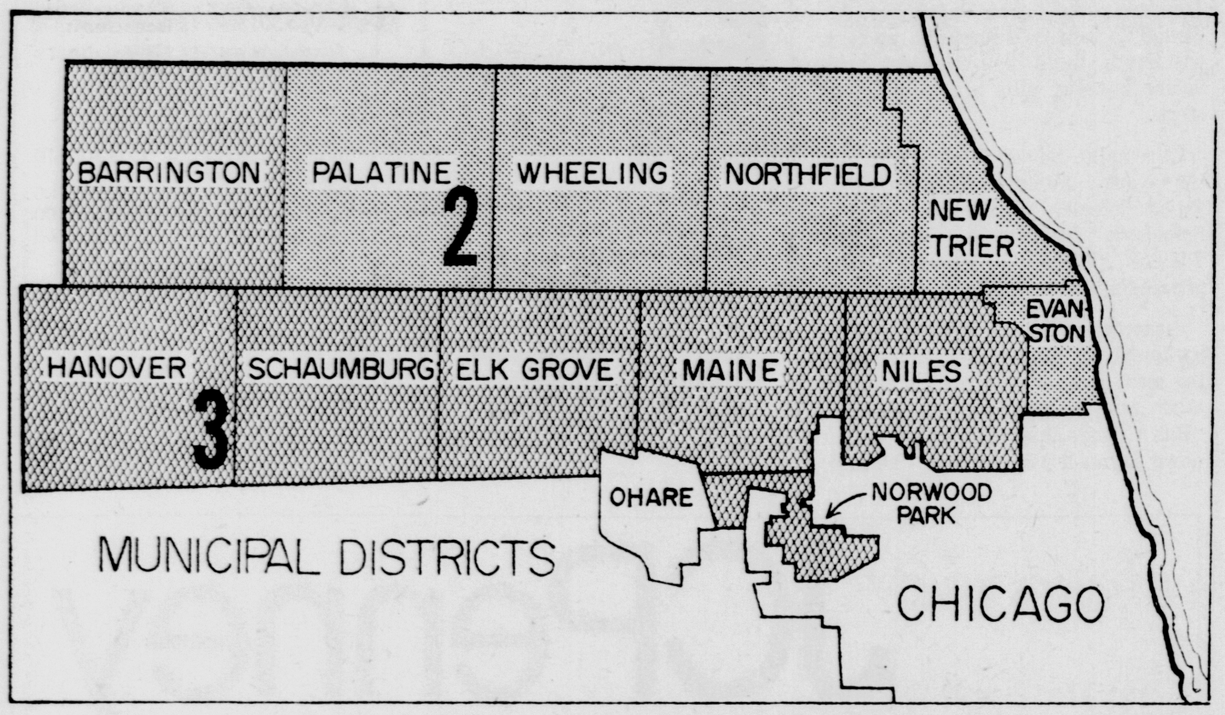

Mini-centers in the geographic and population centers of these two districts probably would be within a few miles of each other and probably would be a long distance from many residents of both districts.

We think two compact districts can be drawn — one essentially North suburban and one Northwest suburban — which would make more sense than the present districts. And a mini-center located in each would be accessible to more residents of both areas.

In the Northwest suburbs, a site which has been under consideration is ideally located at the southwest corner of Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue. On the eastern boundary of Palatine Township, it enjoys easy access via several major routes, including Ill. Rte. 53.

There is a real need to relieve our often over-burdened judicial system and to streamline the suburban judicial process. A mini-center in the area is essential, and so is a redistricting of the area.

We hope the County Board supports Judge Boyle's request and authorizes planning of the mini-centers. And we hope this planning is tied in closely to better drawn district lines.

Court Districts 2, 3 are not compact

Tollway entrance gets two comments

I would like to commend Paddock Publications for its editorial of Dec. 15, 1976, regarding the need for a full interchange at Arlington Heights Road and the Northwest Tollway.

On July 12th of this year, I wrote the Illinois Toll Highway Authority on this matter. Its response was that the first priority of the authority was maintenance of the mainline roadway. New interchanges have second priority.

I support the efforts of the Arlington and Elk Grove Chambers of Commerce urging the Toll Highway Authority to reconsider its priorities and construct a full interchange.

This effort will be successful if all citizens in the surrounding communities write to the Toll Highway Authority to express their interest in a full interchange. The address is Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, 2001 West 22nd Street, Oak Brook, Ill. 60521, Donald C. Zimmer, Chief Engineer.

Just wondering. Could it be that the toll road authority that constructed only half an interchange at Arlington Heights Road are a bunch of half wits who are working at their full capacity?

Mayor's pay increase needs reconsideration

Simply crossing a line can make the difference in how you're treated as mayor.

For example, the new mayor of Des Plaines next spring will receive a salary of $32,500 which is $7,500 more than the current mayor earns. Meanwhile, across the city line to the west, Mount Prospect's new mayor will make the same salary his predecessor has made since 1969 — $2,000. The reason for the huge difference in salaries between the two municipalities is Des Plaines has a full-time mayor while Mount Prospect's is part-time.

But that consideration aside, the mayors of both towns have certain basic responsibilities. Were their common duties separated, the Des Plaines mayor would merit higher pay.

Still, Mount Prospect has the lowest paid part-time mayor among larger villages in this area. For example, the mayors of Palatine and Arlington Heights earn $3,600 and $4,800 respectively for their part-time duties.

Outgoing Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert proposed the pay increase in his village. He also proposed a raise for village trustees and the village clerk.

Ironically, the trustees fall in line with other area officials in similar posts, and a proposed $600 increase would have made them among the area's highest paid with $1,800.

The Mount Prospect trustees were overly conservative in voting down an increase in the mayor's salary and should reconsider the issue. While part-time mayors are not in their jobs for the money, accepting a reward of $2,000 strikes us more as martyrdom than public service when one considers the demands on the mayor of Mount Prospect.

20% hike in oil production vowed

Saudi to undersell competition?

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Saudi Arabia will raise its oil production by nearly 20 per cent next year in an apparent drive to undersell other members of the international oil cartel, an influential oil newsletter said Monday.

But despite the apparent cracks in the organization, Sec. Gen. Meshach Feyide of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, said Monday in Vienna any hope that OPEC would break up was only "wishful thinking."

The Middle East Economic Survey, quoting "an authoritative Saudi source," said the Saudis will hike their output "by an average of 1.5 million barrels daily to 10 million barrels daily in the first quarter of 1977."

THE APPARENT PRICE war resulted from the split in the OPEC at its Dec. 15 meeting. The Saudis and the United Arab Emirates adopted a 5 per cent price increase, while 11 other OPEC nations voted the 10 per cent hike.

Increased Saudi production could force other OPEC nations to reduce output in order to limit supplies and keep prices up, or drop prices if they want to maintain current sales levels.

The Saudis pumped nearly 30 % of OPEC's total output in 1976 — 8.44 million barrels per day against OPEC's 29.7 million barrels — and another 1.5 million barrels would give them 35 per cent of OPEC's output.

THE SURVEY SAID an increase of more than 1.5 million barrels per day would strain Saudi Arabia's pumping pipeline and shipping facilities.

Such a hike would not flood the market with cheaper oil but would have a major impact, one knowledgeable oilman said.

"The impact may not be felt immediately because a short-term drop in demand is expected in early 1977. But this means the other OPEC members will almost surely have to cut back their production to maintain their 10 per cent price increase," the oilman said.

The OPEC nations that adopted the higher price hike already have agreed to coordinate production cuts to counteract the Saudi drive.

But unconfirmed reports indicate Kuwait, which went for the higher price hike, is considering a break with the OPEC "hawks" by adopting a discount of 15 cents per barrel.

Cartel breakup 'wishful thinking'

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Speculation the powerful international oil cartel will break up because of a split over prices is nothing but "wishful thinking," Sec. Gen. Meshach Feyide of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said Monday.

"Our organization is stronger than ever," he told reporters. "Speculations about a possible break-up are nothing but wishful thinking."

Feyide's statement came 10 days after the 13 OPEC member-nations adopted competing price hikes. Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates adopted a 5 per cent increase and the others a 10 per cent hike on Jan. 1.

"TWO OIL PRICES do not mean two organizations," Feyide said. "There is no doubt in my mind that OPEC's unity and solidarity were not affected by the price split."

The competing prices have been interpreted by oil experts as a sign of disunity within OPEC that could lead to its break-up. U.S. Treasury Sec. William Simon has said it is only a matter of time before the cartel falls apart.

The Saudis, who already produce 30 per cent of OPEC's total oil output, are expected to increase their production by nearly 20 per cent a year in order to cancel out the higher prices adopted by the other OPEC nations.

BUT THE OPEC "hawks" have agreed to coordinate cutbacks in their oil output in order to counterbalance the Saudi production increase, diminish oil supplies and keep prices high.

Feyide said OPEC's next oil price decision will depend on market and production conditions after the next six months. The 11 OPEC "hawks" already have adopted another 5 per cent hike on July 1. "We will have to wait at least six months to have a clearer picture of the situation," Feyide said.

A Nigerian, Feyide will end his two-year term as OPEC secretary general on Dec. 31. He will be replaced by Ali Mohammed Jaidah of the Persian Gulf state of Qatar.

Lockout expected today at 18 area cemetery sites

by LEA TONKIN

A cemetery workers strike which began Monday morning at five Chicago area locations may be followed today by a lockout at another 18 cemeteries including Randhill Park and the adjacent Shalom Memorial Park in Palatine.

The labor dispute follows unsuccessful bargaining talks between the 23-member Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago and Local 106 of the Cemetery Workers Union, Service Employes International in the AFL-CIO.

THE CONTRACT FOR some 205 workers involved in opening and closing graves, grounds keeping and related activities expired Dec. 1, said Martin Heckmann, business manager for the union. He said a lockout by cemetery owners at Shalom and Randhill will start this morning.

Dave Sherwood of Shalom Memorial Park at Rand and Wilke roads said work continued as usual Monday. There may be a lockout today at some cemeteries, he said. Sherwood said no confirmation of lockout sites is available.

Cemeteries affected by the Local 106 strike include Acacia, Westlawn and Montrose in Chicago, Evergreen in Evergreen Park and Memorial Park in Skokie.

Services can be moved to another location or bodies may be kept at area funeral homes if the planned cemetery is affected by the strike-lockout, Heckmann said. There are more than 100 cemeteries in the Chicago metropolitan area.

HECKMANN SAID representatives of Local 106 and Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago have met for several bargaining sessions. "Our last two were with a federal mediator," he said. The union seeks a contract agreement comparable to a recent pact with Chicago area Catholic cemeteries. The Catholic cemetery agreement provides a total of $5,600 in additional wages for each employe during the next three years and new fringe benefits in health and accident insurance and pensions. Average hourly wages were $5.86 an hour, Heckmann said.

"This strike is a rerun of a strike three years ago," Heckmann said. "Mayor Daley intervened after three days." He noted that the number of Chicago area cemetery workers has declined during the past several years.

Among the suburban cemeteries included in the Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago are Lake Street Memorial near Elgin and Chapel Hills West in Elmhurst.

Blue chip, glamor rally pushes Dow near 1,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — A blue chip-and-glamor rally put the Dow Jones industrial average near the 1,000 level and drove prices Monday to their highest level in three months. But trading on the New York Stock Exchange was sluggish.

Off a fraction at the start, the Dow climbed 10.47 points to 996.09, the best gain since a 11.22-point surge Dec. 6. The close was the highest since the Dow finished at 1,013.13 on Sept. 27, just before the blue-chip average went into a six-week slide that carried it to a low of 924.04 on Nov. 10.

The skid ended, the closely watched average gained 72.05 points, including 1.08 Thursday, and is knocking on the door of the mystical 1,000 level. It went through that mark 11 times earlier this year, but failed to hold there.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 1.22 to 106.06. IBM, an S&P component and a major glamor that can influence the rest of the market, climbed 6-1/8 to 277¾ in wake of a report in the Wall Street Journal that some analysts were speculating the firm's board of directors would propose a three-for-two stock split in late January.

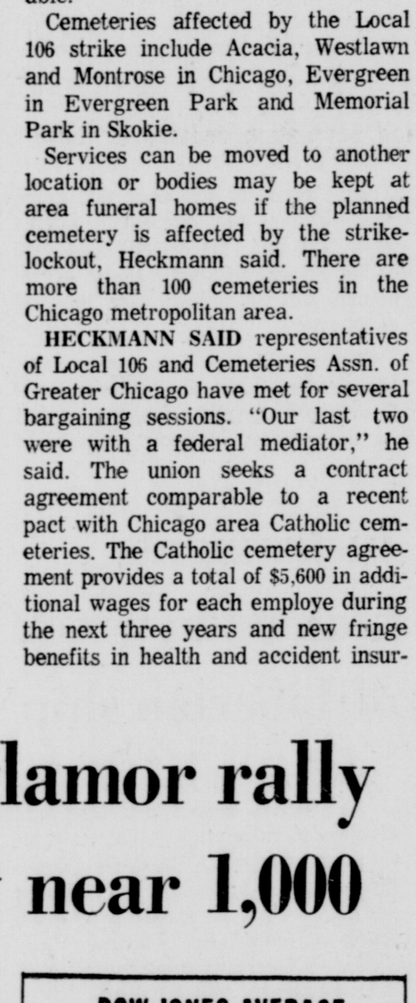

The NYSE common stock index rose 0.62 to 57.11 and the average price of a common share increased by 38 cents. Advances walloped declines, 1,093 to 411, among the 1,907 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 20,130,000 shares, down from the 24,560,000 traded Thursday. The light turnover indicated many investors were taking an extended holiday. The market was closed Friday, Christmas Eve.

BLUE-CHIP GENERAL Motors, the third most active Big Board issue, gained 1 to a 1976 high of 78-1/8 on 224,400 shares. GM reported strong mid-December auto sales. Chrysler, the seventh most active issue, gained 7/8 to 20½ on 201,900 shares. Ford added 1¼ to 61-3/8.

Occidential Petroleum led the Big Board active list, up 1/8 to 24¼ on 236,300 shares. Koppers Corp. followed, up 1-1/8 to 22-7/8 on 233,800 shares, including a block of 213,100 shares at 22½.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by 14 cents. Volume totaled 2,760,000 shares, down from the 3,070,000 traded Thursday.

'Low tar cigarets to lead market'

Low tar cigarets will eventually surpass full flavor cigarets in sales, the chairman of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. predicted Monday. Of 18 new cigaret brands introduced in 1976, 12 were low tar, Chairman William D. Hobbs said in a news release.

"The tobacco company that leads in the low 'tar' segment of the market will be the company that leads the industry in the future . . . " Hobbs said. R. J. Reynolds introduced its first low tar cigaret in 1969 and now has five of the 31 low tar brands on the market. "Just as the filter cigaret category segmented into the full flavor and low 'tar' areas, the low 'tar' category is being divided," Hobbs said. Low tar cigarets are in the 11-15 mg of 'tar' range.

IRS asking for unpaid taxes

Approximately 37,000 Illinois and other Midwest taxpayers are being notified that they apparently did not report all of their income on their 1974 federal income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service has announced. Nationally, some 420,000 similar notices will be mailed. Dividends, interest, wages and other types of income reported directly to the IRS on information returns have been found not to agree with the amounts reported by the taxpayers involved. A computer process also uncovered cases of possible failure to file tax returns by 61,792 Illinois residents.

The board of directors of CF Petroleum Co. announced that effective Jan. 1 the company will become known as Energy Cooperative Inc. The company was formed in 1975 to supply petroleum products for nine supply cooperative owners, including CF Industries, Inc., Long Grove.

Retirement plan urged by Dec. 31

Self-employed persons may gain a hefty 1976 tax deduction if they set up a Keogh retirement plan by Dec. 31, said the American Bankers Assn. The association said the plan allows a 15 per cent income tax deduction for income up to $7,000 and up to 7.5 per cent interest on a six-year time deposit beginning with as little as $100. Keogh retirement plans were authorized by the U. S. Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962.

A career in data processing is fairly lucrative and many in the field are rising to top posts in the organizations they work for, according to Datamation Magazine. It points out that more than 55 per cent of the top data processing managers earn above $30,000 — compared to 41 per cent last year — and that 40 per cent now are officials in their companies.

Oil leakage can be cut: magazine

The amount of hydraulic oil leakage in industrial plants is a staggering 100 million gallons annually, Plant Engineering Magazine maintains. The loss can be cut substantially, it adds, by proper use, storage, handling and recycling of the oil. Incidentally, the annual loss would be enough to give an oil change to 80 million automobiles, it says.

Low tar cigarets will eventually surpass full flavor cigarets in sales, the chairman of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. predicted Monday. Of 18 new cigaret brands introduced in 1976, 12 were low tar, Chairman William D. Hobbs said in a news release.

"The tobacco company that leads in the low 'tar' segment of the market will be the company that leads the industry in the future . . . " Hobbs said. R. J. Reynolds introduced its first low tar cigaret in 1969 and now has five of the 31 low tar brands on the market. "Just as the filter cigaret category segmented into the full flavor and low 'tar' areas, the low 'tar' category is being divided," Hobbs said. Low tar cigarets are in the 11-15 mg of 'tar' range.

IRS asking for unpaid taxes

Approximately 37,000 Illinois and other Midwest taxpayers are being notified that they apparently did not report all of their income on their 1974 federal income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service has announced. Nationally, some 420,000 similar notices will be mailed. Dividends, interest, wages and other types of income reported directly to the IRS on information returns have been found not to agree with the amounts reported by the taxpayers involved. A computer process also uncovered cases of possible failure to file tax returns by 61,792 Illinois residents.

Oil firm changes name

The board of directors of CF Petroleum Co. announced that effective Jan. 1 the company will become known as Energy Cooperative Inc. Lee Solomon, executive vice president of the Long Grove firm, said the name change does not affect company operations or organization. The company was formed in 1975 to supply petroleum products for nine supply cooperative owners, including CF Industries, Inc., Long Grove.

Retirement plan urged by Dec. 31

Self-employed persons may gain a hefty 1976 tax deduction if they set up a Keogh retirement plan by Dec. 31, said the American Bankers Assn. The association said the plan allows a 15 per cent income tax deduction for income up to $7,000 and up to 7.5 per cent interest on a six-year time deposit beginning with as little as $100. Keogh retirement plans were authorized by the U. S. Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962.

Data processing career lucrative

A career in data processing is fairly lucrative and many in the field are rising to top posts in the organizations they work for, according to Datamation Magazine. It points out that more than 55 per cent of the top data processing managers earn above $30,000 — compared to 41 per cent last year — and that 40 per cent now are officials in their companies.

Oil leakage can be cut: magazine

The amount of hydraulic oil leakage in industrial plants is a staggering 100 million gallons annually, Plant Engineering Magazine maintains. The loss can be cut substantially, it adds, by proper use, storage, handling and recycling of the oil. Incidentally, the annual loss would be enough to give an oil change to 80 million automobiles, it says.

Lockout expected today at 18 area cemetery sites

by LEA TONKIN

A cemetery workers strike which began Monday morning at five Chicago area locations may be followed today by a lockout at another 18 cemeteries including Randhill Park and the adjacent Shalom Memorial Park in Palatine.

The labor dispute follows unsuccessful bargaining talks between the 23-member Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago and Local 106 of the Cemetery Workers Union, Service Employes International in the AFL-CIO.

THE CONTRACT FOR some 205 workers involved in opening and closing graves, grounds keeping and related activities expired Dec. 1, said Martin Heckmann, business manager for the union. He said a lockout by cemetery owners at Shalom and Randhill will start this morning.

Dave Sherwood of Shalom Memorial Park at Rand and Wilke roads said work continued as usual Monday. There may be a lockout today at some cemeteries, he said. Sherwood said no confirmation of lockout sites is available.

Cemeteries affected by the Local 106 strike include Acacia, Westlawn and Montrose in Chicago, Evergreen in Evergreen Park and Memorial Park in Skokie.

Services can be moved to another location or bodies may be kept at area funeral homes if the planned cemetery is affected by the strike-lockout, Heckmann said. There are more than 100 cemeteries in the Chicago metropolitan area.

HECKMANN SAID representatives of Local 106 and Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago have met for several bargaining sessions. "Our last two were with a federal mediator," he said. The union seeks a contract agreement comparable to a recent pact with Chicago area Catholic cemeteries. The Catholic cemetery agreement provides a total of $5,600 in additional wages for each employe during the next three years and new fringe benefits in health and accident insurance and pensions. Average hourly wages were $5.86 an hour, Heckmann said.

"This strike is a rerun of a strike three years ago," Heckmann said. "Mayor Daley intervened after three days." He noted that the number of Chicago area cemetery workers has declined during the past several years.

Among the suburban cemeteries included in the Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago are Lake Street Memorial near Elgin and Chapel Hills West in Elmhurst.

Blue chip, glamor rally pushes Dow near 1,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — A blue chip-and-glamor rally put the Dow Jones industrial average near the 1,000 level and drove prices Monday to their highest level in three months. But trading on the New York Stock Exchange was sluggish.

Off a fraction at the start, the Dow climbed 10.47 points to 996.09, the best gain since a 11.22-point surge Dec. 6. The close was the highest since the Dow finished at 1,013.13 on Sept. 27, just before the blue-chip average went into a six-week slide that carried it to a low of 924.04 on Nov. 10.

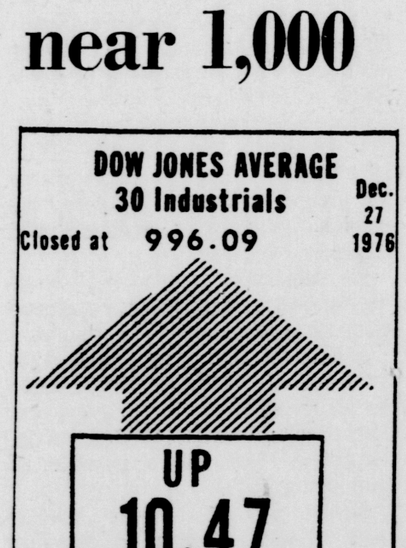

The skid ended, the closely watched average gained 72.05 points, including 1.08 Thursday, and is knocking on the door of the mystical 1,000 level. It went through that mark 11 times earlier this year, but failed to hold there.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 1.22 to 106.06. IBM, an S&P component and a major glamor that can influence the rest of the market, climbed 6-1/8 to 277¾ in wake of a report in the Wall Street Journal that some analysts were speculating the firm's board of directors would propose a three-for-two stock split in late January.

The NYSE common stock index rose 0.62 to 57.11 and the average price of a common share increased by 38 cents. Advances walloped declines, 1,093 to 411, among the 1,907 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 20,130,000 shares, down from the 24,560,000 traded Thursday. The light turnover indicated many investors were taking an extended holiday. The market was closed Friday, Christmas Eve.

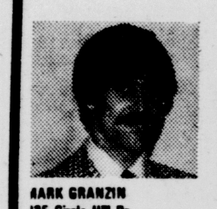

BLUE-CHIP GENERAL Motors, the third most active Big Board issue, gained 1 to a 1976 high of 78-1/8 on 224,400 shares. GM reported strong mid-December auto sales. Chrysler, the seventh most active issue, gained 7/8 to 20½ on 201,900 shares. Ford added 1¼ to 61-3/8.

Occidential Petroleum led the Big Board active list, up 1/8 to 24¼ on 236,300 shares. Koppers Corp. followed, up 1-1/8 to 22-7/8 on 233,800 shares, including a block of 213,100 shares at 22½.

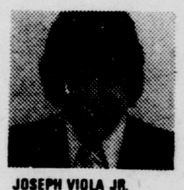

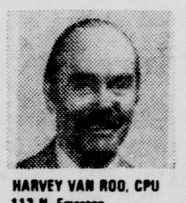

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by 14 cents. Volume totaled 2,760,000 shares, down from the 3,070,000 traded Thursday.

Another Liberian tanker spills oil

The Liberian tanker Olympic Games ran aground in the Delaware River Monday, rupturing its hull below the water line and spilling its cargo of crude oil into the water. The accident happened one mile south of Philadelphia at 3:10 p.m. CST, and four hours later the Coast Guard estimated 133,500 gallons of crude oil had poured from the tanker into the river, which forms a boundary between Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The tanker carried 406,000 gallons of oil and was en route to the British Petroleum refinery at nearby Marcus Hook, Pa., when it ran aground while maneuvering a turn in the river.

The Coast Guard said the tanker sustained hull damage to its port quarters, but the extent of damage could not be determined immediately because the rupture was below the water line. Clean-up contractors sought to contain the spill by putting booms around the ship.

On Dec. 15, another Liberian tanker, the Argo Merchant, ran aground and dumped its cargo of oil off Nantucket Island.

441 die in holiday traffic

Close to 30 more persons died in traffic over this year's Christmas holiday than last year, but the toll was well below the lowest estimate of safety experts, final figures showed Monday. The traffic death toll was 441 between 6 p.m. local time Thursday and midnight Sunday. Last year's count over a similar period was 412. The National Safety Council had estimated between 460 and 560 persons would die during the 1976 holiday weekend.

The overall holiday fatality total came to 549, swelled by 99 deaths in home fires. The breakdown of holiday deaths:

Traffic 441; fires 99; planes 9; total 549.

Texas led the traffic death count with 33. There were 31 in California, 25 in North Carolina, 23 in Florida, 18 in Illinois and 16 in both Indiana and New York State. Chicago mourned the holiday's greatest tragedy. Ten children and two mothers died on Christmas Eve when a barbecue grill set up for a kids' party turned a stairwell into an inferno.

Flu shots may be resumed

Though there is probably "a great deal of skepticism" now about swine flu shots, the government's top doctor said Monday the program may be resumed soon. Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said an advisory panel of scientists and health experts will meet in Atlanta Wednesday to consider whether to offer flu shots again. The nationwide swine flu vaccine program was suspended Dec. 16 after dozens of persons who received the shots developed a sometimes paralyzing condition known as Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Blacks flee Cape Town

Hundreds of frightened residents of two black townships outside Cape Town fled their homes Monday to escape fighting between rival blacks that already had left 19 dead and 97 injured. Several homes were reported burning in renewed clashes Monday. South African Police Commissioner Gen. Gert. Prinsloo said police moved Monday into the suburbs of Gugulethu and Nyanga, five miles southeast of Cape Town, where black militants, led by a group of young women, fought migrant workers with knives, machetes and guns.

The clashes, which began late Christmas day, resulted from the attempts of militants to enforce their appeal to blacks to ignore Christmas celebrations to protest against the killing of 400 people during recent anti-government rioting in the suburbs of Johannesburg.

Thai troops lured to deaths

Communists have lured 22 Thai government soldiers to their deaths in a classic guerrilla ambush near the Laotian border, military sources in Bangkok said Monday. It was the heaviest death toll suffered by the army in a single incident in the 12-year-old insurgent war, the sources said.

The sources said four other soldiers were wounded in the rocket grenade ambush of an army truck and jeep convoy Saturday in Nan province, 500 miles north of Bangkok near the Laotian border. "They had been alerted that an outpost was under attack," the sources said. "The army sent a reduced platoon of 26 officers and men to relieve the outpost. Half way from the province capital to the site of the original incident, the Communists attacked."

Cairo trains crash, 42 hurt

Two electric trains collided south of Cairo Monday, injuring 42 passengers. It was the third Egyptian transportation accident on land, sea and in the air in the past four days. The collision occurred near the luxury Maadi suburb, 10 miles south of Cairo, when an oncoming train slammed into the rear of another stopped on the tracks by a red light signal.

The injured were rushed to the suburban Dar El Salam hospital and the Manial hospital in Cairo. Many of them suffered minor injuries.

Carter-Brezhnev meeting 'likely prospect in 1977'

ST. SIMONS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter said Monday a meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev is a "likely prospect for 1977" and strongly indictated he will seek a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

Carter made the comments at the Glynco Naval Air Station on this lush island as he gathered his entire cabinet for the first time to make decisions on the economy and the direction of domestic and foreign policy in his new administration.

He also told reporters the "rate of growth" of Soviet military strength compared to the United States "has probably been fairly substantial but we're still by far stronger than they are in most means of measuring military strength."

THERE HAVE BEEN reports the Soviet Union is moving away from military parity and seeking supremacy.

Asking whether he would be meeting with the Kremlin leader Carter, said, "I would guess that's a likely prospect for 1977 although we haven't made any plans about it yet."

The president-elect has received several messages from Brezhnev since the November election.

In all of his responses to questions about the economy, Carter indicated there was no doubt there would be a tax cut, the only question was how much. He also said he was "encouraged" by some of the most recent economic indicators.

CARTER BEGAN three days at the 1,300-acre Musgrove Plantation, owned by the R. J. Reynolds tobacco family, and discussed the economy with incoming Treasury Sec. Michael Blumenthal, budget director Bert Lance and chief economic adviser Charles Schultze.

Carter said he would have a chance to get to know their opinions "on what amount of stimulation is needed for the economy — how much tax reduction and how much for jobs programs."

He said he would rather wait before making a decision.

"By the end of this week we'll have things fairly well decided," Carter said. "The mix (tax cut and jobs) will be fairly well decided but the actual amount will not be until after the first of the year.

"We're still trying to learn about the present state of the economy," Carter said adding he was encouraged by the current situation compaed to a month or two ago.

CARTER WAS in a bouyant mood when he arrived and quickly changed into casual attire.

Before leaving Plains, Carter paid a 7:30 a.m. visit to his 78-year-old mother, "Miss Lillian," in the hospital in Americus, 10 miles away. She is resting after suffering arthritic pains.

Most of the Carter cabinet flew to St. Simons from Washington aboard Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale's Air Force jet. Most brought their families to the resort island where they will stay at the exclusive Cloisters motel.

Instruments blamed in wreck of Liberian ship

NEW YORK (UPI) — The captain of the Liberian tanker Argo Merchant testified Monday that at the time his ship ran aground on Nantucket Shoals his gyrocompass was no longer in use and he had not obtained an accurate fix on his position for 15 hours.

Captain George Papadopoulos, a 43-year-old Greek, told a hearing in U.S. District Court that just hours before the grounding on Dec. 15 he had noticed his gyro acting erratically and discontinued its use.

His helmsman, he said, was steering the boat by hand using a magnetic compass, a less accurate instrument.

ASKED IF THE grounding 27 miles southeast of Nantucket Island could be attributed to the faulty gyroscope, Papadopolous replied through an interpreter, "Yes, that's possible. It probably was."

Strong northwest winds Monday kept 7.6 millions gallons of heavy fuel oil — spilled when the Argo Merchant broke up on the shoals last Tuesday and Wednesday — away from shore. It was the worst oil spill disaster in U.S. Atlantic coast history.

South-southeast winds Sunday blew some of the oil as close as 19 miles off Nantucket Island, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said. But an afternoon shift to northwest winds halted the threat at least temporarily.

Papadopoulos' sworn statement was taken in connectio with a lawsuit filed by the owners of the Argo Merchant, the Thebes Shipping Co., seeking to limit its liability in the disaster.

A HEARING IS scheduled Thursday on motions by attorneys for a group of Cape Cod fishermen, who are seeking $60 million in damages, to move all court proceedings to Boston.

Papadopoulos said sextant sights had been taken on two stars a half hour before the grounding but, because of the darkness, he had "no trust in them." His last accurate fix, he said, was made at 2:30 p.m. the day before.

Based on bearings given him by the Coast Guard after the grounding, the captain said, he figured he was more than 30 miles off his plotted course to Salem, Mass., where the oil was to be delivered.

Several homes were reported burning in renewed clashes Monday. South African Police Commissioner Gen. Gert. Prinsloo said police moved Monday into the suburbs of Gugulethu and Nyanga, five miles southeast of Cape Town, where black militants, led by a group of young women, fought migrant workers with knives, machetes and guns.

The clashes, which began late Christmas day, resulted from the attempts of militants to enforce their appeal to blacks to ignore Christmas celebrations to protest against the killing of 400 people during recent anti-government rioting in the suburbs of Johannesburg.

Thai troops lured to deaths

Communists have lured 22 Thai government soldiers to their deaths in a classic guerrilla ambush near the Laotian border, military sources in Bangkok said Monday. It was the heaviest death toll suffered by the army in a single incident in the 12-year-old insurgent war, the sources said.

The sources said four other soldiers were wounded in the rocket grenade ambush of an army truck and jeep convoy Saturday in Nan province, 500 miles north of Bangkok near the Laotian border. "They had been alerted that an outpost was under attack," the sources said. "The army sent a reduced platoon of 26 officers and men to relieve the outpost. Half way from the province capital to the site of the original incident, the Communists attacked."

Cairo trains crash, 42 hurt

Two electric trains collided south of Cairo Monday, injuring 42 passengers. It was the third Egyptian transportation accident on land, sea and in the air in the past four days. The collision occurred near the luxury Maadi suburb, 10 miles south of Cairo, when an oncoming train slammed into the rear of another stopped on the tracks by a red light signal.

The injured were rushed to the suburban Dar El Salam hospital and the Manial hospital in Cairo. Many of them suffered minor injuries.

Carter-Brezhnev meeting 'likely prospect in 1977'

ST. SIMONS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter said Monday a meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev is a "likely prospect for 1977" and strongly indictated he will seek a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

Carter made the comments at the Glynco Naval Air Station on this lush island as he gathered his entire cabinet for the first time to make decisions on the economy and the direction of domestic and foreign policy in his new administration.

He also told reporters the "rate of growth" of Soviet military strength compared to the United States "has probably been fairly substantial but we're still by far stronger than they are in most means of measuring military strength."

THERE HAVE BEEN reports the Soviet Union is moving away from military parity and seeking supremacy.

Asking whether he would be meeting with the Kremlin leader Carter, said, "I would guess that's a likely prospect for 1977 although we haven't made any plans about it yet."

The president-elect has received several messages from Brezhnev since the November election.

In all of his responses to questions about the economy, Carter indicated there was no doubt there would be a tax cut, the only question was how much. He also said he was "encouraged" by some of the most recent economic indicators.

CARTER BEGAN three days at the 1,300-acre Musgrove Plantation, owned by the R. J. Reynolds tobacco family, and discussed the economy with incoming Treasury Sec. Michael Blumenthal, budget director Bert Lance and chief economic adviser Charles Schultze.

Carter said he would have a chance to get to know their opinions "on what amount of stimulation is needed for the economy — how much tax reduction and how much for jobs programs."

He said he would rather wait before making a decision.

"By the end of this week we'll have things fairly well decided," Carter said. "The mix (tax cut and jobs) will be fairly well decided but the actual amount will not be until after the first of the year.

"We're still trying to learn about the present state of the economy," Carter said adding he was encouraged by the current situation compaed to a month or two ago.

CARTER WAS in a bouyant mood when he arrived and quickly changed into casual attire.

Before leaving Plains, Carter paid a 7:30 a.m. visit to his 78-year-old mother, "Miss Lillian," in the hospital in Americus, 10 miles away. She is resting after suffering arthritic pains.

Most of the Carter cabinet flew to St. Simons from Washington aboard Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale's Air Force jet. Most brought their families to the resort island where they will stay at the exclusive Cloisters motel.

Instruments blamed in wreck of Liberian ship

NEW YORK (UPI) — The captain of the Liberian tanker Argo Merchant testified Monday that at the time his ship ran aground on Nantucket Shoals his gyrocompass was no longer in use and he had not obtained an accurate fix on his position for 15 hours.

Captain George Papadopoulos, a 43-year-old Greek, told a hearing in U.S. District Court that just hours before the grounding on Dec. 15 he had noticed his gyro acting erratically and discontinued its use.

His helmsman, he said, was steering the boat by hand using a magnetic compass, a less accurate instrument.

ASKED IF THE grounding 27 miles southeast of Nantucket Island could be attributed to the faulty gyroscope, Papadopolous replied through an interpreter, "Yes, that's possible. It probably was."

Strong northwest winds Monday kept 7.6 millions gallons of heavy fuel oil — spilled when the Argo Merchant broke up on the shoals last Tuesday and Wednesday — away from shore. It was the worst oil spill disaster in U.S. Atlantic coast history.

South-southeast winds Sunday blew some of the oil as close as 19 miles off Nantucket Island, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said. But an afternoon shift to northwest winds halted the threat at least temporarily.

Papadopoulos' sworn statement was taken in connectio with a lawsuit filed by the owners of the Argo Merchant, the Thebes Shipping Co., seeking to limit its liability in the disaster.

A HEARING IS scheduled Thursday on motions by attorneys for a group of Cape Cod fishermen, who are seeking $60 million in damages, to move all court proceedings to Boston.

Papadopoulos said sextant sights had been taken on two stars a half hour before the grounding but, because of the darkness, he had "no trust in them." His last accurate fix, he said, was made at 2:30 p.m. the day before.

Based on bearings given him by the Coast Guard after the grounding, the captain said, he figured he was more than 30 miles off his plotted course to Salem, Mass., where the oil was to be delivered.

Styles are born in the Sun Belt

The Sun Belt — it's increasingly attracting attention, for some a place to vacation or retire, for others a place to invest or the source of political power.

For the fashion world it's a place where new and exciting men's styles are born.

"The climate in the Sun Belt makes it an outdoor-oriented society, one that is more relaxed and geared toward a more leisurely ace. This lifestyle is obviously reflected in the choice of clothing," suggests Chip Tolbert, fashion director for the Mens Fashion Association.

This Sun Belt influence will be seen in men's clothing for sping and summer.

In tailored clothing it will be a "dressy, casual look," says Tolbert. Far more relaxed in detailing than their Eastern counterparts, Sun Belt designs have adopted the European silhouette in suits and sport coats. This silhouette features close-fitting coats with definite shaping.

Vests are an important part of the look and are used with both suits and sport coats as well as the new compose and related separate look.

Fabrics in the tailored area of Sun Belt fashions are summery in both fabric and textures. Natural blends, combining such natural fibers as wool, linen and cotton with polyesters, are widely used and also popular are texturized 100 per cent polyesters.

A soft earthy clay shade is among the new colors and there are many clear blues in both medium and dark tones. Styles also will come in softer frosted fabric effects, off-whites and ecrus.

In sportswear, the safari bush jacket look maintains its influence of several past seasons, while the new look in sports shirts indicates a move away from scenic and floral designs to more controlled looks. Patterns are neater, more subdued, leaning strongly toward abstracts, stripes and plaids.

Far more woven fabrics are being used in sports shirts, including rough "dish cloth" fabrics, but knits are still well represented.

Both jeans and slacks appear with many novelty pocket treatments, but more subtle than previously.

Travel tips from the top

Traveling men who want to make the going easier should check with the boss to learn a trick or two. Company presidents usually travel so much that it's become as simple for them as gong to the office.

P. K. Dunsire, president of Carte Blanche, headquartered in Los Angeles and sometime-model for his company's commercials, has found time-saving ideas.

"I never check a bag," said Dunsire. He prefers to tote a garment bag aboard a flight and packs a suitcase small enough to fit under his seat. He has found, too, that keeping toilet articles all packed in a small case saves unncessary packing and unpacking.

To determine such important facts as the number of shirts to carry along, Dunsire plans his laundry stops. If it's three days (counting weekends) until he can have them laundered, then three shirts are packed. He takes it from there.

DOES HE CARRY money on his travels? Never! His board of directors wouldn't hear of such mutiny, so the frequent traveler pockets enough cash for tips and counts on his Carte Blanche card (and others) for the bulk of his travel bills.

On the opposite coast, Bob Wussler, president of the CBS Television Network, considers himself almost a professional traveler since he averages about 100 trips a year out of his New York office. At times, he'll jet to Chicago, stay a day or two, then continue on to Los Angeles.

Wussler sums up his ease of traveling by saying he pays attention to basics. He keeps a small overnight case semi-ready to go. A hanging bag is another necessity for the business traveler. By not checking a suitcase, he figures he saves about half an hour per airport.

"An aisle seat also saves time," Wussler added, thinking of getting in and out of airplanes quickly. Hotels do his laundry (he's not the wash-it-out type), but he feels that a suit's life is longer if it is pressed more often than it is dry-cleaned.

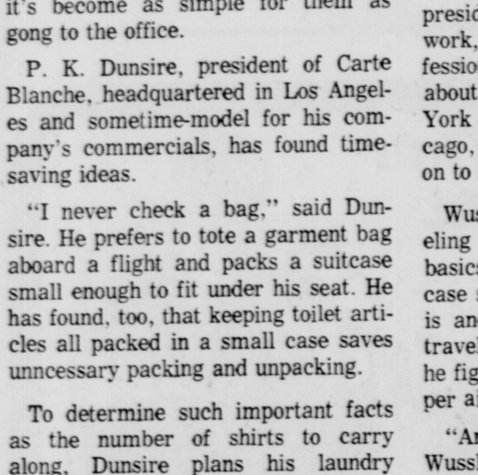

TERRY TUCKER, president of Maple Leaf Farms, Inc., and Serenade Foods, Inc., located in Milford, Ind., is engaged in agri-business, his company being America's leading independent producer of quality ducks. Tucker often drives to his destinations so he has found that using his tape recorder as he drives to dictate letters and make other verbal notations is a definite time-saver.

"My beard grows fast so I keep a battery-powered shaver in my briefcase," Tucker laughed.

Richard R. Harshman, president of Charles Corp., manufacturer of women's wear in Sullivan, Ill., has been traveling for more than two decades.

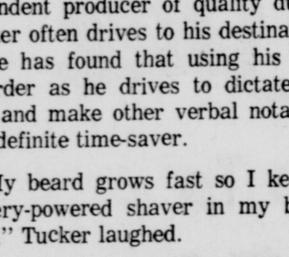

"Men have more clothes today . . . and they're made better," Harshman said, recalling accidents that have happened such as the time coffee was spilled on him during a flight. Luckily, he was wearing a wash and wear suit — and he washed it!

HARSHMAN will wash socks and underwear, if absolutely necessary, but he never packs a suit, preferring to carry it in a garment bag and tries not to have his clothing dry-cleaned too often. He has discovered that a hotel bell captain will lend such items as ties, cuff links, rubbers, umbrella, even a raincoat. Harshman has also found out (the hard way) that club soda, applied with a clean cloth, will clean unexpected spills.

Another Californian who travels a lot is Gary Gordon, president of A-Mark Coin Co., Inc., of Beverly Hills, coin dealer. Often his travels are on short notice so he keeps his toilet articles packed in a small bag at home and carries a two-suiter aboard in which he's packed one suit and one casual outfit . . . as well as Qiana nylon dress shirts.

"In my business, a calculator is as necessary as a razor," says Gordon, emphasizing his need for carrying a traveling calculator. He also totes a battery-operated razor and a small folding umbrella.

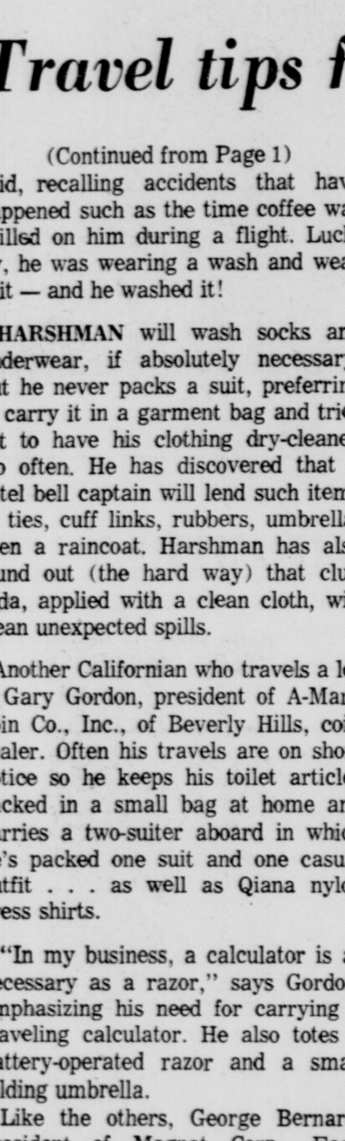

Like the others, George Bernard, president of Magnat Corp., Easthampton, Mass., machinery manufacturing firm, seldom checks his luggage. Also like the others, he keeps toilet articles packed at all times, usually in the smaller size containers. In winter he makes sure his raincoat, which folds to a very small size, is with him.

"SINCE I OFTEN visit machine shops during the day, I can go with an informal suit and sport shirt," Bernard said of his wardrobe, "and I pack a dress shirt and tie so I am set for dinner and almost any occasion."

Without a doubt, the prettiest company president queried, Betty Blake, newly-appointed president of the Delta Queen Steamboat Co., has the clothing problem solved for every man on vacation. Informality is the usual word for steamboat travelers, but if a man likes to dress up, he can do that, too.

"A steamboat has no rules," Betty Blake smiled, thinking of the venerable Delta Queen and the brand new Mississippi Queen, the first overnight steamboat built in 50 years. "A man doesn't have to worry about wearing a tie, but he can. Nobody stops to check him at the door."

Learning to tie a tie a fashion dilemma

by CHARLES HIX

Boys and young men, women and girls, still are jumping into man-tailored jackets and suits. This means that learning to tie a tie after years of open-collared shirts has become a universal fashion dilemma.

Windsor and half-Windsor knots are generally too bulky for youngsters' and women's necks, so coping with the classic four-in-hand is the simpler and more balanced solution for those who want a tie that is complimentary to their physique.

Even the clumsiest fingers can follow the six steps in this progression.

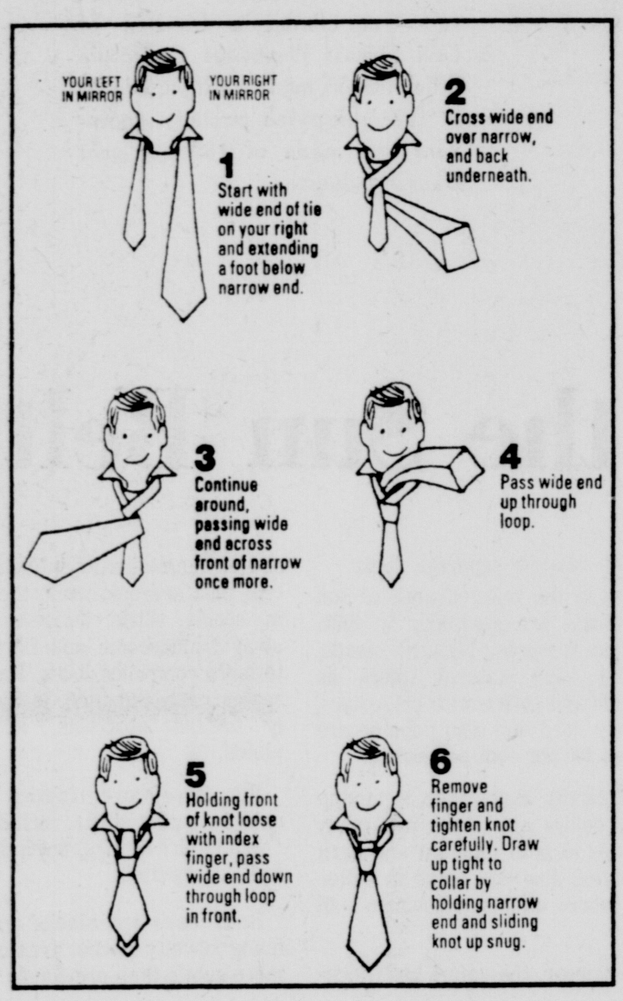

The four-in-hand creates a long, straight looking tie. A 'gentleman' always has an inverted, center pleat beneath the knot and ties should just touch the belt buckle.

NECKWEAR MANUFACTURERS now offer tie versions dimensigned for all ages and sizes in a full range of styles and patterns. For pre-teens and teenagers, the easy-care polyesters and nylons with their silky appearances may be more economical and durable that the real thing.

However, the fiber — despite arguments to the contrary — is less important in a tie holding its shape than proper care.

First, when removing a tie, exactly reverse the steps in tying it. Don't pull it through the small knot, which increases wrinkling. Allow two or three days between wearings so the inevitable creases can fall out. Hanging ties freely on specially-designed racks helps. Exceptions, according to the Men's Tie Foundation, are knitted ties. These should be rolled or folded and stored in a drawer so they don't lose their shape.

DESIGNER BILL Blass totes a couple pieces of his new lines of casual travel bags. They're made of 100 per cent water repellant wool with soft natural leather trim with a vinyl interior lining. Made by Seward Luggage Division of the Dayco Corp.

Travel tips from the top

said, recalling accidents that have happened such as the time coffee was spilled on him during a flight. Luckily, he was wearing a wash and wear suit — and he washed it!

HARSHMAN will wash socks and underwear, if absolutely necessary, but he never packs a suit, preferring to carry it in a garment bag and tries not to have his clothing dry-cleaned too often. He has discovered that a hotel bell captain will lend such items as ties, cuff links, rubbers, umbrella, even a raincoat. Harshman has also found out (the hard way) that club soda, applied with a clean cloth, will clean unexpected spills.

Another Californian who travels a lot is Gary Gordon, president of A-Mark Coin Co., Inc., of Beverly Hills, coin dealer. Often his travels are on short notice so he keeps his toilet articles packed in a small bag at home and carries a two-suiter aboard in which he's packed one suit and one casual outfit . . . as well as Qiana nylon dress shirts.

"In my business, a calculator is as necessary as a razor," says Gordon, emphasizing his need for carrying a traveling calculator. He also totes a battery-operated razor and a small folding umbrella.

Like the others, George Bernard, president of Magnat Corp., Easthampton, Mass., machinery manufacturing firm, seldom checks his luggage. Also like the others, he keeps toilet articles packed at all times, usually in the smaller size containers. In winter he makes sure his raincoat, which folds to a very small size, is with him.

"SINCE I OFTEN visit machine shops during the day, I can go with an informal suit and sport shirt," Bernard said of his wardrobe, "and I pack a dress shirt and tie so I am set for dinner and almost any occasion."

Without a doubt, the prettiest company president queried, Betty Blake, newly-appointed president of the Delta Queen Steamboat Co., has the clothing problem solved for every man on vacation. Informality is the usual word for steamboat travelers, but if a man likes to dress up, he can do that, too.

"A steamboat has no rules," Betty Blake smiled, thinking of the venerable Delta Queen and the brand new Mississippi Queen, the first overnight steamboat built in 50 years. "A man doesn't have to worry about wearing a tie, but he can. Nobody stops to check him at the door."

Learning to tie a tie a fashion dilemma

by CHARLES HIX

Boys and young men, women and girls, still are jumping into man-tailored jackets and suits. This means that learning to tie a tie after years of open-collared shirts has become a universal fashion dilemma.

Windsor and half-Windsor knots are generally too bulky for youngsters' and women's necks, so coping with the classic four-in-hand is the simpler and more balanced solution for those who want a tie that is complimentary to their physique.

Even the clumsiest fingers can follow the six steps in this progression.

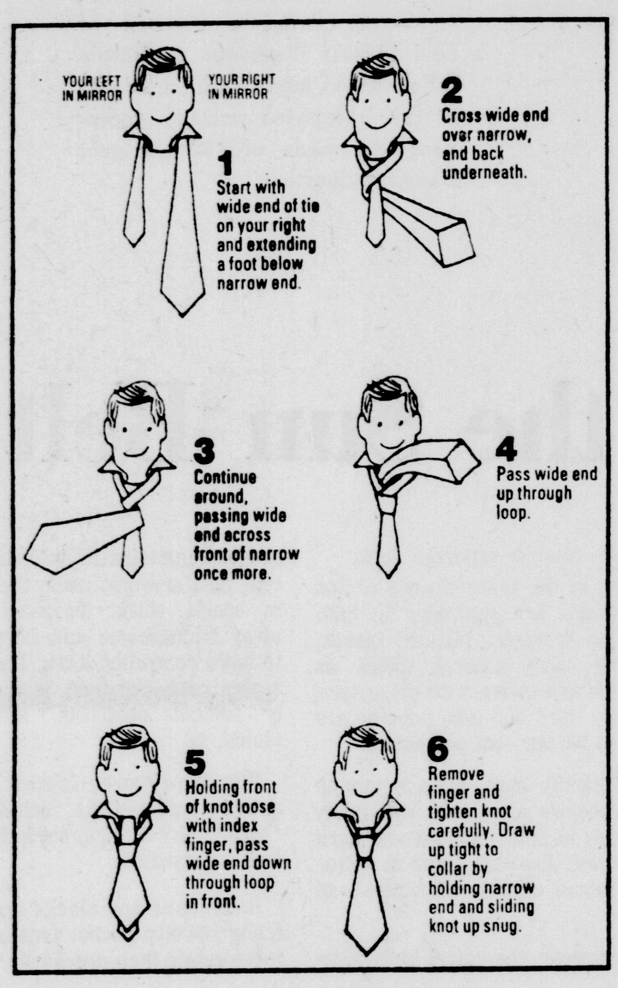

The four-in-hand creates a long, straight looking tie. A 'gentleman' always has an inverted, center pleat beneath the knot and ties should just touch the belt buckle.

NECKWEAR MANUFACTURERS now offer tie versions dimensigned for all ages and sizes in a full range of styles and patterns. For pre-teens and teenagers, the easy-care polyesters and nylons with their silky appearances may be more economical and durable that the real thing.

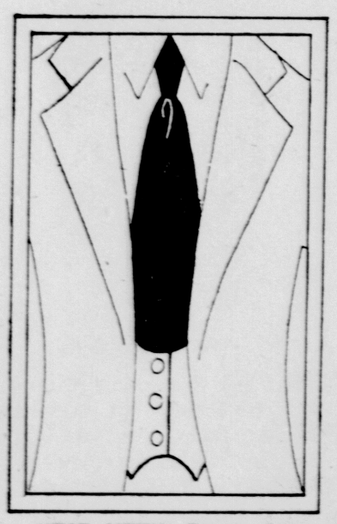

However, the fiber — despite arguments to the contrary — is less important in a tie holding its shape than proper care.

First, when removing a tie, exactly reverse the steps in tying it. Don't pull it through the small knot, which increases wrinkling. Allow two or three days between wearings so the inevitable creases can fall out. Hanging ties freely on specially-designed racks helps. Exceptions, according to the Men's Tie Foundation, are knitted ties. These should be rolled or folded and stored in a drawer so they don't lose their shape.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Pressure in plane causes ear pain

I am flying to California for a vacation. The last time I flew I I had this terrific pain in my right ear which was almost unbearable. Can you suggest anything I can do to relieve this? Would packing the ear help? I am 65 years old.

For heaven's sakes don't pack your ear. That is the worst thing you could do. The pain is probably associated with the changes in air pressure.

There is an external-pressure to all parts of your body and at sea level it is about 15 pounds per square inch. This pressure is also applied to your ear drum. The same pressure is transmitted to the inside of your mouth and through a tube to the inside of your ear. As long as the pressure is equal inside and outside the ear, you have no symptoms or awareness of the pressure.

When you first take off, the commercial air lines now pressurize the cabin while at ground level. This increases the external pressure and may cause trouble immediately. At high altitude, in flight, the pressure may decrease, but, it is kept at or below 7,000 feet. The 7,000 feet altitude though, or even lesser altitudes, is enough to affect your ear.

As the pressure diminishes outside the ear, if you don't also decrease the pressure inside the mouth and to the internal ear, the unbalanced pressure will push the inner ear contents outward. The stretching causes the pain. When you finally adjust to the new level and the pressure inside and outside the ear is the same at altitude, all is well.

The problem starts again when you descend to land. As the external pressure increases, if the internal pressure is still equivalent to the lesser pressure of altitude, the external pressure against the ear drum may cause symptoms.

THERE IS a tube at the back of the mouth that transmits the pressure in the mouth to the internal ear. If it is closed for any reason, blocked with inflammation from a cold, or from an overgrowth of lymph tissue, it is not effective in rapidly equalizing the internal pressure to that of the outside pressure. You might have your doctor examine you to see if you have normal openings to your ears.

To insure the pressure exchange some people chew gum. The action allows the pressure to change rapidly in the back of the mouth and may help keep the tube to the internal ear open. Yawning also helps.

If you do not have a cold and all else fails, you can sometimes blow gently while pinching the tip of the nose shut. This will help increase the air in the back of the mouth and in the tube. This should never be done if you have a cold or you might blow infected material into the ear and have an ear infection as a complication. And it doesn't work if you are having trouble because there is too much pressure inside compared to outside the ear, as occurs while you are at altitude.

I would also like to mention that some people have more trouble because they have an ear partially or completely blocked with wax. A check-up before flying might eliminate these problems for you.

For information on causes and treatment of "Headache: Man's Most Common Pain," send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 2-9 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

It's possible to cut wiring from blanket

Dear Dorothy: Do you know ow to get the wires out of an electric blanket? — Erma E. Bewley Anything electrical can go out of whack occasionally so I shouldn't be surprised by the number of times this query comes up. Mrs. Chester Dobbs sent in her way of handling this and we heard from several readers, who reported how satisfactory it was. Cut around the heating element at the bottom (through just one thickness) to get to the wiring, cut the wires loose and then cut the element out. Try to make this cut as small as possible. Then go to the top of the blanket and take the binding off. Don't cut the threads which keep the wiring in place. All you need do is just pull the wiring out. This done, bind the end with a new satin binding and sew a small piece of binding over the small hole at the other end.

Dear Dorothy: My brother just returned from a trip abroad and says he ate goat meat often. He says it's eaten here, too. I've never seen it mentioned. Is it sold in stores? How is it fixed? H.S.W.

Occasionally, you'll see meat cuts called "chevon." That's goat. Many people like it, say it tastes a bit like mutton. It's rubbed with lemon to get rid of the strong taste and is usually roasted like lamb. It's also barbecued. We all should know about goat meat from the Bible and other historical records. After all, that's what a "kid" is — a young male goat.

Dear Dorothy: There's an unpleasant smoky smell in our fireplace. I'd like to eliminate the odor. How? With what? — Gordon Fox

Be mindful of drinking when planning a party

Having a party to greet the New Year? Planning to serve drinks?

Don't surprise your guests by serving them doubles. Many people count and pace their drinks. By serving doubles, they'll drink twice as much as they planned. And that isn't hospitality on your part; it's down right inconsiderate.

That's one tip included in a new booklet, "Drinking Etiquette — for Those Who Do and Those Who Don't," available from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. You can get a copy by sending 40 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 34E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

ADDITIONAL SUGGESTIONS are planning a party so nondrinking guests do not feel uncomfortable. Offer a choice of drinks besides alcohol including fruit and vegetable juices, tea, coffee and soft drinks.

It's up to the host or hostess to set the tone of a party. The purpose of a gathering is fellowship and warmth, not how drunk guests can get. The fun is in getting people warmed up by talking to one another instead of by drinking.

Other tips include:

Pacing the drinks. A drink-an-hour schedule means good company prevails, not booze. Let the glass be empty before you offer a refill. And don't rush especially if someone comes up empty too fast: When a guest says no thanks to a drink, don't insist.

Be sure to push the snacks while your guests are drinking, not after. This is important because food slows down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the blood stream. It also somewhat slows down their drinking.

If yours is a dinner party, serve before it's too late. A cocktail is supposed to enhance a fine dinner, not compete with it.

If someone at the party has had too much to drink, offer him or her coffee instead of another round. And don't let the person who's had too much to drink drive home. See that he or she gets a ride home with someone else or spends the night at your house.

Pollution suffocates growing plants

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Jim Campbell, 11, of Milford, Conn., for his question:
HOW DOES POLLUTION AFFECT THE GROWTH OF TREES AND PLANTS?

Pollution is a complex byproduct of our modern world, for which no simple solutions exist. It affects the air, the soil and the water. And, unhappily, it affects plants and trees — some so severely that they die.

Most of the polluting gases and particles man puts into the air come from burning processes. We burn fuels in countless ways: in our homes for heat and cooking; in the engines of cars, trucks, buses and airplanes; in factories and garbage and trash disposal plants. This burning or combustion releases hydrocarbons and nitrogen dioxide fumes and particles that injure plants and trees. The gooey stuff clings to foliage, suffocating new growth and keeping moisture and sunlight out. Some trees and shrubs are more resistant to the effects than others, but all suffer.

Plant life also is damaged where the soil has been polluted with too many chemical pesticides and fertilizers. In nature, certain bacteria decay wastes in the soil, providing for the presence of nitrates, phosphates and other nutrients. Although fertilizers add extra nutrients to the soil, sometimes large amounts of fertilizers decrease the ability of bacteria to function naturally. Pesticides also may harm bacteria and other helpful organisms in the soil.

If you live in a city, you probably have observed trees and plants enough to know how sooty and grimy they get. Frequent rains help clean the foliage, but some plant life acquires a clinging coat of grime even rainfall won't remove. You can help by squirting all foliage frequently with a harsh spray from the hose.

Pollution is a tremendous problem, but individuals can help by electing persons to government office who favor sensible controls on fuel consumption. We also can be conservation-minded — walking or riding a bike instead of driving, putting on an extra sweater instead of turning up the heat, collecting materials for recycling and making do with used items instead of rushing out to buy new ones.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Mary Kathrine Durkin, 10, of Scottsdale, Ariz., for her question:
WHY DO PEOPLE DUMP THEIR DOGS?

A lot of persons "dump" dogs for many reasons. Some find the pet too much work or too expensive or a nuisance. A few, when they move, merely leave the dog behind. These persons think — mistakenly — that the dog will get along fine. Surely, they reason, someone will feed it and eventually adopt it. Meanwhile, the animal will somehow survive, just as their ancestors of the wild.

Of course, this reasoning simply isn't correct. Abandoned or "dumped" dogs often join packs of other wild dogs. Scavengers of the night, they roam the neighborhood, raiding trash barrels, attacking other animals and often spreading diseases. Sometimes they become ferocious. Feral (wild) dogs can be menacing creatures, ready to attack anyone who dares come close.

Here is the fastest played hand of 1976. At least the play was fast after trick one.

West did study before leading the seven of clubs and South went into a real executive session before playing from dummy.

His problem was to decide if West was actually leading from the king in order to force South to make a decision at trick one.

Finally, South decided that West was not that kind of a mean defender, so South went up with dummy's ace.

When the ace dropped East's singleton king South had no problem in the play of the trump suit. He would be sure of his contract if he didn't lose a trick to the king of spades to be followed by a club ruff so South played his ace of trumps, dropped the second singleton king and made an overtrick.

Incidentally, we don't think much of West's opening lead. While West did have a very unattractive choice of opening leads we would rather lead an unbid suit (hearts or diamonds) instead of playing the one bid by dummy.

A reader from New Mexico wants to know what is meant by the expression, "A passive lead."

A passive lead is one designed to protect your own high cards. As an example, suppose the opponents reach six notrump and you hold two kings and a queen. The passive lead would be in the suit without an honor.

A $1,500 tax break, a plan for retirement—and you're not taking advantage of them?

It has surprised retirement planning experts that more people are not taking advantage of the Individual Retirement Account. These are people who need it most, the ones who are not currently participating in any qualified retirement plan.

The Pension Reform Act authorizes them to set aside each year in a separate retirement fund 15% of their annual wages up to $1,500. This not only provides a nest egg for retirement but saves several hundred dollars each year in income taxes, the exact amount depending on the individual's tax bracket. The amount that goes into an Individual Retirement Account is deducted from the gross income reported on the federal income tax return. No income tax is paid on the I.R.A. money until it is used in retirement years.

If you are employed and not currently covered by a qualified retirement plan, do yourself the favor of talking with one of our savings counselors about the I.R.A. and what it can do for you. You'll be glad next April 15 that you did—even more so during the years ahead when there will be no more pay checks.

SPECIAL HOURS to give you an opportunity to take advantage of the IRA plan during the current tax year, all Arlington Federal offices will be open on Dec. 28 and 30 from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M.

Second City zaniness lives on in anniversary show

Mid-week review

by LAURA SCHMALLBACH

You won't find many theater groups turning Christ's birth into a soap opera entitled "The Guiding Star." Not every troupe will base a skit on the death of a man who got his head stuck in a gallon can of Van Camp's beans. And most actors don't approach vasectomies from quite the same tack that Second City does.

But zaniness has been the name of the game for The Second City improvisational theater since its inception 17 years ago in a converted laundry on Chicago's Wells Street, and the touring company's anniversary show now on stage at Chateau Louise in Dundee is no exception.

Despite a shaky start, some not-so-funny gags, and a sparse Sunday afternoon crowd, the seven member cast managed to pull in laughs for most of the two-hour performance.

The show is a compilation of the troupe's most popular skits, and several numbers merited just as much laughter the second or third time around.

JIM SHERMAN AND Jon Smet are hilarious as an off-balance news team featuring Sherman as the anchorman announcing juicy tragedies and Smet as his colleague left with the big news of a $12 robbery at a health food store on Wells Street.

Just as funny are sarcastic jabs at political caucuses (everyone from women's libbers to Jewish Latinos are sniped at in this one) and a village board meeting (the topic here is sex education in the schools, with one irate parent complaining that "the next thing you know, they'll be passing out condominiums to the kids.")

While the entire cast is effective, Smet shines in a variety of roles from an earnest radio salesman hawking the "Greatest Hits of the 11th Century" to a father who tries to win back his runaway son with cans of chicken soup and a box of Cheerios.

BUT EVEN THE machine gun pace and clever acting could not sustain all the Second City's efforts. A trio singing about the indignities of eating liver just doesn't quite make it, and while the skit at a vasectomy clinic makes a valid point about the macho mystique, the off-color jokes were also off the mark.

Yet the just-plain-outrageousness of Second City's material pulls the show through, off-color jokes notwithstanding — and even if one routine falls flat chances are the next one will be a winner.

The touring cast at Chateau Louise includes Sherman, Smet, Jim Belushi, George Went, Audrie Neenan, Bernadette Birkett and Larry Coven. The show will be on stage for an indefinite run.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Van Houten charges misrepresentation

Manson clan member wins trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leslie Van Houten, who shaved her head, carved an "X" on her forehead and hissed at the judge during her first murder trial with the "Manson Family," showed up in court Monday as a "rehabilitated" young woman after seven years in jail.

Miss Van Houten, dressed neatly, wearing bangs and speaking softly, entered a plea of "not guilty" for a new trial ordered by the California appellate court on grounds she was not represented properly by counsel at the first trial.

A starting date of Jan. 28 was set for her second trial but both defense and prosecution agreed it probably would not get under-way until at least March.

THE 27-YEAR-OLD former high school beauty queen was convicted along with Charles Manson, Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel of the 1969 Tate-LaBianca murders. She was found guilty of only the killings of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca.

Like the others, she was sentenced to death, but the penalty was reduced to lie after the California Supreme Court outlawed capital punishment.

Defense lawyer Maxwell Keith told Superior Court Judge Jack E. Goertzen Monday that Miss Van Houten had an exemplary record at the California Institution for Women at Frontera where she has become editor of the prison newspaper.

She has been throughly rehabilitated and presents no danger to society," Keith told the court.

Keith argued that she should be eligible for bail and asked that it be set for no more than $50,000.

Judge Goertzen then set bail at $200,000 but said it could be reduced substantially if Keith produced records of her rehabilitation.

OUTSIDE THE courtroom, the defense lawyer said the amount was inconsequential, that he was simply trying to establish that she should be eligible.

"Her folks certainly can't raise anything like $50,000," he said.

The appellate court held that Miss Van Houten should have had her case severed from the others and given a new trial at that time.

Deputy District Attorney Stephen Kay told reporters he was prepared to recall as witnesses almost the entire cast of the first trial. The prosecutor said, however, he had not been able to locate Linda Kasabian, the state's star eyewitness.

CHARLES MANSON follower Leslie Van Houten, wearing bangs, appeared in a Los Angeles court Monday to enter a plea of "not guilty" for a new trial ordered by the California Appellate court on grounds she was not properly represented by counsel at the first trial. A starting date of Jan. 28 was slated for her second trial.

Alaska Pipeline Office chief target of probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Interior Dept. investigator Monday arranged a meeting with the chief of the federal Alaska Pipeline Office to ask about reports he took favors from a construction firm working on the 800-mile line.

The same agent will travel to Idaho and Texas later in the week to interview officials of the big Morrison-Knudsen construction combine which is building the southern one-sixth of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The internal investigation was launched at the request of APO chief Andrew Rollins after he became aware syndicated columnist Jack Anderson planned a story making the allegations, a spokesman said.

ANDERSON SAID Maj. Gen. Rollins a former Army engineer, had taken chartered plane rides, free fishing vacations and other favors from the Morrison-Knudsen construction combine which is building one-sixth of the pipeline.

John Pearson, investigations chief in the department's Office of Audits and Investigations, said Rollins requested the probe Dec. 16 "to document his long-standing friendship with the parties involved." Rollins, head of the office which enforces federal regulations on the pipeline, contended there was no conflict of interest.

Interior Secretary-designate Cecil Andrus also has acknowledged accepting a one-day trip in 1975 from the company and the issue may be raised at his confirmation hearings. Andrus said the company president is a good friend, and he had no official dealings with the firm as Idaho governor.

PEARSON SAID an agent "cut short his Christmas vaction" to fly to Seattle Sunday evening for a Monday meeting with Rollins, who traveled from Anchorage for the interview.

The same agent will go to Boise, Idaho, this week to talk with officials at Morrison-Knudsen headquarters and to Fort Worth, Tex., to interview Jean Beard, company vice president in charge of pipeline operations, he said.

Anderson reported Rollins and his wife stayed free of charge at a house provided by Beard during a Hawaiian vacation a year ago.

Pearson said his agent may give an oral report by the end of the week, and the information will be given to Under-secretary Kent Frizzell next Monday or earlier if necessary since "you can't really tell how hot this will be or not."

Any evidence of a "statutory violation" would be referred to the Justice Dept., he said.

Coast Guard resumes probe of tanker blast

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A U.S. Coast Guard panel looking for the cause of an explosion which destroyed the oil tanker Sansinena Dec. 17 resumed Monday after a holiday break. Four were killed in the blast and fire and five were still missing.

The four-member panel has been hearing testimony from witnesses to the early evening explosion in Los Angeles Harbor which blew apart the 38,000-ton vessel.

The panel members ordered a halt to salvage operations last week because they feared removal of debris would destroy evidence useful in finding the cause of the blast.

The Liberian tanker with an Italian crew had spent two days unloading crude oil at the Union Oil Co. Refinery and had taken on Bunker fuel when the blast occurred.

REAR ADM. JAMES Moreau, chairman of the marine board of inquiry, said he authorized a search for the bodies of four missing crewmen and one security guard.

"But we can't afford to move any more of the debris until we've had a chance to examine it for clues," he said.

He said investigators might be able to pinpoint the center of the blast by examining the deck plate and bridge superstructure, which were blown onto the shore and driven into the ground by the force of the blast, heard more than 40 miles away.

Windows were shattered in some areas as far as 21 miles away. The immediate port area, including a shopping complex, was a shambles. Thousands of gallons of oil were blown across the surface of the harbor and more oil, heavy crude, was found at the bottom of the channel.

Van Houten charges misrepresentation

Manson clan member wins trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leslie Van Houten, who shaved her head, carved an "X" on her forehead and hissed at the judge during her first murder trial with the "Manson Family," showed up in court Monday as a "rehabilitated" young woman after seven years in jail.

Miss Van Houten, dressed neatly, wearing bangs and speaking softly, entered a plea of "not guilty" for a new trial ordered by the California appellate court on grounds she was not represented properly by counsel at the first trial.

A starting date of Jan. 28 was set for her second trial but both defense and prosecution agreed it probably would not get under-way until at least March.

THE 27-YEAR-OLD former high school beauty queen was convicted along with Charles Manson, Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel of the 1969 Tate-LaBianca murders. She was found guilty of only the killings of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca.

Like the others, she was sentenced to death, but the penalty was reduced to lie after the California Supreme Court outlawed capital punishment.

Defense lawyer Maxwell Keith told Superior Court Judge Jack E. Goertzen Monday that Miss Van Houten had an exemplary record at the California Institution for Women at Frontera where she has become editor of the prison newspaper.

She has been throughly rehabilitated and presents no danger to society," Keith told the court.

Keith argued that she should be eligible for bail and asked that it be set for no more than $50,000.

Judge Goertzen then set bail at $200,000 but said it could be reduced substantially if Keith produced records of her rehabilitation.

OUTSIDE THE courtroom, the defense lawyer said the amount was inconsequential, that he was simply trying to establish that she should be eligible.

"Her folks certainly can't raise anything like $50,000," he said.

The appellate court held that Miss Van Houten should have had her case severed from the others and given a new trial at that time.

Deputy District Attorney Stephen Kay told reporters he was prepared to recall as witnesses almost the entire cast of the first trial. The prosecutor said, however, he had not been able to locate Linda Kasabian, the state's star eyewitness.

CHARLES MANSON follower Leslie Van Houten, wearing bangs, appeared in a Los Angeles court Monday to enter a plea of "not guilty" for a new trial ordered by the California Appellate court on grounds she was not properly represented by counsel at the first trial. A starting date of Jan. 28 was slated for her second trial.

Alaska Pipeline Office chief target of probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Interior Dept. investigator Monday arranged a meeting with the chief of the federal Alaska Pipeline Office to ask about reports he took favors from a construction firm working on the 800-mile line.

The same agent will travel to Idaho and Texas later in the week to interview officials of the big Morrison-Knudsen construction combine which is building the southern one-sixth of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The internal investigation was launched at the request of APO chief Andrew Rollins after he became aware syndicated columnist Jack Anderson planned a story making the allegations, a spokesman said.

ANDERSON SAID Maj. Gen. Rollins a former Army engineer, had taken chartered plane rides, free fishing vacations and other favors from the Morrison-Knudsen construction combine which is building one-sixth of the pipeline.

John Pearson, investigations chief in the department's Office of Audits and Investigations, said Rollins requested the probe Dec. 16 "to document his long-standing friendship with the parties involved." Rollins, head of the office which enforces federal regulations on the pipeline, contended there was no conflict of interest.

Interior Secretary-designate Cecil Andrus also has acknowledged accepting a one-day trip in 1975 from the company and the issue may be raised at his confirmation hearings. Andrus said the company president is a good friend, and he had no official dealings with the firm as Idaho governor.

PEARSON SAID an agent "cut short his Christmas vaction" to fly to Seattle Sunday evening for a Monday meeting with Rollins, who traveled from Anchorage for the interview.

The same agent will go to Boise, Idaho, this week to talk with officials at Morrison-Knudsen headquarters and to Fort Worth, Tex., to interview Jean Beard, company vice president in charge of pipeline operations, he said.

Anderson reported Rollins and his wife stayed free of charge at a house provided by Beard during a Hawaiian vacation a year ago.

Pearson said his agent may give an oral report by the end of the week, and the information will be given to Under-secretary Kent Frizzell next Monday or earlier if necessary since "you can't really tell how hot this will be or not."

Any evidence of a "statutory violation" would be referred to the Justice Dept., he said.

Coast Guard resumes probe of tanker blast

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A U.S. Coast Guard panel looking for the cause of an explosion which destroyed the oil tanker Sansinena Dec. 17 resumed Monday after a holiday break. Four were killed in the blast and fire and five were still missing.

The four-member panel has been hearing testimony from witnesses to the early evening explosion in Los Angeles Harbor which blew apart the 38,000-ton vessel.

The panel members ordered a halt to salvage operations last week because they feared removal of debris would destroy evidence useful in finding the cause of the blast.

The Liberian tanker with an Italian crew had spent two days unloading crude oil at the Union Oil Co. Refinery and had taken on Bunker fuel when the blast occurred.

REAR ADM. JAMES Moreau, chairman of the marine board of inquiry, said he authorized a search for the bodies of four missing crewmen and one security guard.

"But we can't afford to move any more of the debris until we've had a chance to examine it for clues," he said.

He said investigators might be able to pinpoint the center of the blast by examining the deck plate and bridge superstructure, which were blown onto the shore and driven into the ground by the force of the blast, heard more than 40 miles away.

Windows were shattered in some areas as far as 21 miles away. The immediate port area, including a shopping complex, was a shambles. Thousands of gallons of oil were blown across the surface of the harbor and more oil, heavy crude, was found at the bottom of the channel.

Mystery stays Marlene's 72nd birthday companion

PARIS (UPI) — Marlene Dietrich turned 72 Monday. Or was it 74, or maybe even 75?

Miss Dietrich, always touchy about her age, is not likely to clear up the mystery of her birthday, listed variously as Dec. 27, 1901, 1902 and 1904. Her friends agree on 1904 and so, apparently, does she.

No matter.

For generations of movie goers, the sultry voice, shapely legs, blonde hair, blue eyes and lilting German accent of Marlene Dietrich have symbolized romantic intrigue and glamour.

THE BERLIN GIRL who rose to international fame in such films as "The Blue Angel," "The Devil is a Woman" and "Morocco" in the 1930s has been in poor health and a virtual recluse for the past four months in her four-room apartment on the fashionable Avenue Montaigne.

She tells callers, "If you want to ask me any questions, you should write me a letter and I may answer."

Working on her autobiography, Miss Dietrich, who was awarded the French Legion of Honor for entertaining Allied troops during World War II, also spends her time drawing and doing her own shopping, cooking and housework.

Miss Dietrich fell and broke her hip in August 1974. That didn't prevent her keeping engagements to appear on stage in London and New York. But it is that injury that is now causing trouble for the women known, to her displeasure, as "The world's most glamorous grandmother."

Miss Dietrich met and married American chicken farmer Rudolf Sieber in Berlin in 1924, but they lived apart for 50 years.

THEY HAD ONE child, Maria, born in 1926, who became a film actress using the stage name, Maria Riva.

One of Miss Dietrich's delights is to visit her daughter in New York, where she can sometimes be seen walking with her grandchildren in Central Park.

In the 1920s she met German director Max Reinhart, who gave her her first major part in a stage version of "The Taming of the Shrew" and put her on the road to stardom.

By the time she moved to the United States in 1930 — where she became a naturalized citizen in 1937 — as Paramount's answer to MGM's Greta Garbo, she already had appeared in a dozen German films.

In her first year in America, she starred in "Morocco" opposite Gary Cooper.

Then followed "Shanghai Express" "The Devil is A Womai," "Blond Venus," "Garden of Allah," "The Blue Angel," "A Foreign Affair," "Witness for the Prosecution," and "Judgment at Nuremberg," among many others.

Chinese papers headline honors for the late Mao

Academy chief wins poetry title

HONG KONG (UPI) — Kuo Mo-jo, the president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, submitted one of the prize-winning poems at a poetry and song recital dedicated to new Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng.

Peking Radio said Sunday the recital was the biggest and "most successful" in many years with many poets on the blacklist for years submitting entries.

Soprano Wang Kun, who had not been permitted to sing publicly for 10 years, sang at the recital and "was greeted with stormy applause."

SOME OF THE songs and poems were old ones being revived after being banned by the so-called "Gang of Four" — Mao Tse tung's widow, Chiang Ching, Wang Hung-wen, Chang Chun-chiao and Yao Wen-yuan — who controlled the cultural field for 10 years before they were purged last October.

Kuo's poem, written just after the purge while he was in the hospital, was entitled, "Smashing the 'Gang of Four.' "

"What heartening news,

"The ferreting out of the 'Gang of Four'!

"THE POLITICAL rogue, the literary rascal,

"The sinister adviser Chang and the white-boned spirit who compared herself to Empress Wu Tse-tien,

"All swept away by the iron broom!

"The successor is a hero,

"Resolute in a carry out the behest.

"What a magnificent contribution!"

HO CHINA-CHIH, writer of the script of one of the most popular of the modern Peking operas, "The White-haired Girl," submitted a 200-line poem entitled, "China's October."

"The poem hails that China now has Chairman Hua at the helm to guide the proletarian revolutionary cause pioneered by the great leader and teacher Chairman Mao forward," Peking Radio said, quoting one line which says: "The ship of revolution is speeding ahead in full sail."

Wang Kun, the first singer to play the title role in "The White-haired Girl," was described as "a victim of the persecution by the 'Gang of Four.' "

"THE GANG abused their power to prohibit her from performing in public for 10 years," the broadcast said.

"Her reappearance on stage at a recent song recital was greeted with stormy applause. Though her voice had not yet been fully recovered, she sang for the enthusiastic worker-peasant-soldier audience five songs at a stretch."

Although she had been praised in the past for her contributions to Chinese Communism by the late Premier Chou En-lai, Chiang Ching "branded Wang Kun as an 'enemy agent,' a 'counter-revolutionary' and a 'bad element'. Wang Kun did not regain her freedom until the downfall of the 'Gang of Four' in October," Peking Radio said.

HONG KONG (UPI) — Pictures of the late Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung Sunday crowded Chinese newspapers along with poems brimming over with "high esteem and warm love for our great leader" in China's observance on what would have been his 83rd birthday, Peking Radio reported Monday.

The party newspaper, People's Daily, and all other newspapers in Peking published a large photograph of Mao on their front pages, Peking Radio said. The remainder of the front page and three inside pages of each paper was devoted to material in praise of Mao, who died Sept. 9.

The People's Daily published three poems in praise of Mao. Two were written by Marshal Chu Teh, the former commander-in-chief of the Chinese army, who died in July. The other was written by Kuo Mo-jo, president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences.

"COMRADE CHU Teh's two poems brim over with high esteem and warm love for our great leader Chairman Mao," said an editor's note which accompanied Chu's work, called "Happy to Read Two Poems by Chairman Mao." The poems were written early this year after wide publicity was given to two poems written by Mao 10 years ago.

At the time Chu's poems were written, the widow of the late Prime Minister Chou en-lai, Teng Yingchao, recommended they be published in the People's Daily. But Yao Wen-yuan, one of the radical leaders purged last October, "refused truculently," Peking Radio said.

Yao was described as "the reactionary literary rascal of the 'Gang of Four' who controlled the mass media" before their purge.

"Today, after the anti-party 'Gang of Four' has been weeded out, we reprint the two poems of Comrade Chu Teh to mark the birthday of our great leader and teacher Chairman Mao and to denounce the anti-party crimes of the 'Gang of Four'," the editor's note said.

Interesting start for Mid-Suburban teams

Mid-Suburban League teams found both triumphs and tribulations on the prep basketball road Monday as most holiday tournaments reached tip-off.

Competing at sites from Centralia to DeKalb, area cagers struck for five victories against eight defeats. State-ranked Buffalo Grove won easily and Fremd upset highly-regarded Barrington to highlight first-night action.

MANY OF THE squads are back on the hardcourt today. Elk Grove plays its first game in the Edwardsville tournament and Prospect begins play at Pontiac.

Here's how the action unfolded Monday:

BISON IN ROMP

It was just what the doctor ordered, a breather that would allow Brian Allsmiler to spend some time on the bench.

Buffalo Grove opened play in the Rockford Boylan tournament with an effortless 74-32 victory over Chicago Carver, once a Chicago Public League power.

The Bison, who return to action at 2:00 today, exploded for a 39-16 halftime lead, and Allsmiller, who had nine baskets in the opening half, was able to sit out a good portion of the final 16 minutes.

ALLSMILLER finished with 20 points, tossing in a pair of second half free throws, and Mike Marshall contributed eight baskets. Scott Groot had five field goals as Coach Paul Grady used 12 players and 10 scored.

Buffalo Grove had 25 points in a red-hot second period, with Allsmiller collecting six baskets in that surge.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Buffalo Grove	14	25	16	19—74
Carver	3	13	10	6—32

VIKINGS STUN BARRINGTON

Fremd used an effective man-to-man defense, and got 23 points from 6-4 guard Dale Hallberg, to advance to the second round of the Elgin tourney with a 61-53 win over Barrington.

Hallberg, who also pulled down 12 rebounds, scored 15 of his points in the first half and teammate Craig Rawlins put in 11 of his 13 points as the Vikings jumped out to a nine point lead halfway through the second quarter.

Barrington reserve guard Bruce Henricksen, who led the Broncos with 15 points, had nine of them in the second quarter as the team cut the halftime score to 35-29.

Dale Hallberg

BARRINGTON, 7-1 coming into the action, shot a poor 2 for 17 in the third period and failed to put the ball in the hoop until 1:45 remained. By then, Fremd had built a 45-29 advantage as Hallberg continued to be the big man.

Dale Kukla contributed 10 points for Fremd, including 6-for-8 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter when Barrington closed the gap to four with a minute left.

PALATINE WHIPS ROCK ISLAND

Kevin McKenna pumped home 27 points and Chris Plazak and Matt Linsner dumped in 10 apiece to lead the Palatine Pirates to a 64-54 win over Rock Island in their first round game of the Rockford Classic Basketball Tournament at Rockford Boylan.

The Pirates (3-6) won their second game in three contests, putting together an eight-point package in the first quarter to take command.

Rock Island, 6-2 going into the contest, held a 13-10 lead in the first quarter before a pair of baskets by Plazak and single hoops from McKenna and Doug Buenzow gave the Pirates an 18-13 margin at the quarter break.

Palatine ballooned their advantage to 47-31 in the third quarter for their largest lead. Rock Island put a rush on at the end with nine straight points, but back-to-back baskets from Linsner nailed down the win.

HUSKIES FALL TO JOLIET

The Hersey Huskies pulled to within two points of Joliet Catholic with 21 seconds left before dropping their opener, 74-70, in the York Holiday Basketball Tournament Monday.

A three-point play by Rich Henschel with 4:54 left in the game gave Joliet their biggest lead at 67-56 but the Huskies outscored their opponents 14-7 over the time remaining to make it interesting.

T. R. Frye led the Huskies with 20 points while game scoring honors went to Joliet's Pat Quigley with 23.

Mark Miesfeldt kicked in 14 of his 16 points in the first half and Joe Pusatera rounded out Hersey's double figure producers with 14.

MEADOWS DROPS OPENER

A third quarter scoring drought spelled the difference between victory and defeat for Rolling Meadows at the Proviso West Holiday Basketball Tournament Monday. The RM Mustangs scored only seven points in the third stanza and fell to the defending state champs from Morgan Park, 62-52.

"They were just too quick for us," shrugged Meadows coach Bill Weinburg, whose club was also plagued by an off night at the line, a raft of turnovers and foul trouble for sharpshooting center Kevin Kiley.

Morgan Park kept up a full court press throughout the contest but it produced as many Morgan Park fouls as it did Meadows miscues. The state kingpins were assessed with 28 personals but Rolling Meadows missed on the front end of six one-and-one situations.

Kiley's temporary absence from the lineup probably hurt Weinberg's outfit the most. Meadows sailed into the second half trailing by only six but sans their big center, fell behind 52-34 before he was reinserted on the floor.

KILEY STILL paced his team in scoring with 17 while Kent Walker added 14. The winners were headed by Mark Williams and Kendall Cobb — brother of last year's all-everything Levi Cobb — with 16 apiece.

Meadows plays again at 2:15 p.m. today.

New Trier West put all five starters into double figures and used a combination of inside strength and outside accuracy to pull away from Hoffman Estates, 73-61 in the Elgin tournament.

Hoffman trailed by as many as eight points in the first quarter but fought back on the shooting of Ron Warring and John Staback, who each had 12 points for the Hawks.

Hoffman and New Trier traded leads throughout the third period until two baskets by Jim Carr and one by Chris Blesius pushed the Cowboys into a lead they never relinquished.

NEW TRIER was led in scoring by guard Rick Malnati who had 19 points. Malnati scored on a layup with 6:40 left in the game as the Cowboys pulled away to a 55-47 lead. Hoffman never threatened after that.

Illinois mat products bid in Midlands meet

An impressive array of home grown talent will be among the 350 grapplers who invade Evanston for the 14th Annual Midlands Wrestling Championships on Dec. 29-30.

Many Illinois prep grapplers, both of new and old vintage, will be on display in McGaw Hall to prove that the Land of Lincoln breeds the finest high school wrestling talent around.

Wrestling starts at 1:00 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Four Illinois high school state champions from 1976 will be attempting to add Midlands' championships to their laurels. Iowa boasts a pair of the former title winners while Northwestern and Illinois State claim one each.

SCOTT TRIZZINO (Joliet Central) and King Muellar (Romeoville) will be carrying the Hawkeye banner at 142 and 150 pounds respectively. The Wildcat colors will be worn by Jim Morris (Wheaton/Glenbard South), a 158-pounder, while Gehrig Dergo (Morris) will represent Illinois State in the 167-pound division.

A trio of state winners from 1972 will be seeking to make their mark in this year's Midlands. They include Tim Cysewski (Glenview/Glenbrook South), the 134-pound champion last year who will represent the Hawkeye Wrestling Club, Mark Tiffany (Waukegan - 190 lbs.) of Northern Illinois and Ken Lewis (Lockport Central - 167 lbs.), of Eastern Illinois.

Two 1973 champions will be on hand while one each from 1969, 1974, and 1975 will compete. Representing Western Illinois and Illinois from the 1973 circle are Gale Seloover (Sterling - 177 lbs.) and Doug Chirico (Naperville Central - 150 lbs.).

THE OLD-TIMER of the group from 1969 is Northwestern assistant coach Mark Massery. The 1973 NCAA champion at 126 pounds is seeking his first Midlands Crown.

Kevin Puebla (Moline - 126 lbs.) of Illinois and Jerry Mulrenin (Oak Lawn - 126 lbs.) were state champs in 1975 and 1974 respectively.

The Midlands has become synonymous with the best wrestling in the United States.

ESTABLISHED IN 1963 as an event to provide competition for wrestlers who have exhausted their college eligibility and to offer holiday competition for college wrestlers. The Midlands was first held in the West Suburban YMCA in LaGrange, Ill. That year, the tournament drew 132 wrestlers and used three mats.

The numbers increased to an all-time high of 529 wrestler and 10 mats in the 1972 Midlands. At that point, the tournament moved to Northwestern's McGaw Hall. It also went to the present invitational-open format by which means the number of entries can be controlled. The Midlands currently uses 6 mats and limits the field to about 325 wrestlers.

Through the years, 22 Midlands wrestlers have represented the United States in Olympic competition. Those include: Dan Gable (gold '72), Ben Peterson (gold '72, silver '76), John Peterson (silver '72, gold '76), Don Behm (silver '68), Chris Taylor (bronze '76), and Russ Hellickson (silver '76).

IN ADDITION, many others have represented the United States in other international competition (World Championships, Pan-American Games, World University Games).

The 1975 Midlands produced the following stats: 9 of 10 1976 NCAA Champions competed. 10 of 20 1976 Olympians competed. 22 of the top 30 medalists from the 1976 NCAA competed. 19 former or current NCAA (Division 1) Champions competed.

No other tournament in the '75-'76 season had this type of quality competition.

Illini recruiting 'on schedule' with emphasis on state players

Bruce Hoffman

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — "Too young? I don't know about that. Most 18-year-old athletes feel someone 28 is pretty old."

That's the way Bruce Hoffman, only Illini football aide retained by new head coach Gary Moeller, responded to concern over the unusual youth of the new Illini football staff.

Hoffman is 28, and his age is nearly the average of assistant coaches hired by the 35-year-old Moeller.

How will these young men hold up in the Chicago area recruiting wars with veteran rivals?

"I THINK WE'RE going to have a great recruiting year in Illinois, and you can quote me on that," said Hoffman, who'll be moving up as coach of UI receivers after handling the freshmen and reserve squad for Bob Blackman.

"Much of my enthusiasm comes from Moeller himself," added Bruce. "He is very confident, and we're going after in-state athletes like never before. We'll be moving into some of the surrounding states like Indiana and Michigan, and we'll check out the interest in top athletes in New York, New Jersey, Washington and Miami, but not until we have covered every possibility in Illinois."

This is a sharp change from Blackman's policy. The former Illini coach saw early that in-state recruiting would not be easy and turned east for a high percentage of his recruits. Clearly, Moeller's program will hinge on his ability to attract in-state stars.

FIVE RECRUITING weekends beginning Jan. 14 will tell the tale leading up to the Feb. 16 signing date. The Illini will have as many as 15 or 20 grid prospects making official visits each of those weekends.

"The early response by both coaches and players has been tremendous," says Hoffman. "We haven't been turned down by a single in-state athlete on a visit. We're on schedule as far as I'm concerned."

So, new faces and extreme youth haven't hindered efforts so far. Offers Hoffman:

"The main factors are enthusiasm, knowledge of the product and being able to understand the feelings of the person you're dealing with. I don't see where age has anything to do with that. You have to be able to determine the desires and fears of a young man and gain his confidence."

HOFFMAN LOOKS back on a number of successful recruiting ventures at Illinois already. He is particularly proud of landing Thornridge lineman Ray Pavesic and Richards tight end Mike Sherrod in competition with strong rivals. They are promising Illini freshmen.

This year his south suburban territory has been widened by Moeller, and he is involved with a dozen or more top prospects including Lockport halfback Kip Carmen, superb Hillcrest linebacker Tom Chakos and North Chicago's 6-6, 250-pound tackle, Tim Norman.

"We have everything set up for the head coach when he returns from the Rose Bowl. His presence here will make a tremendous difference because he is a former assistant who knows how to jump in a car and pound the pavement. He'll be on the move all the time, attending basketball games and wrestling meets and meeting the people.

"Moeller impresses me as being a winner," says Hoffman, "and I'm sure he'll impress the athletes and coaches the same way."

IN SOME SPECIAL cases, where super bluechippers like quarterback Rich Weiss of New Trier East and halfback Jeff Hornberger of Edwardsville are involved, Moeller will take full charge. Ultimately, of course, the head man has to be the final salesman in every case.

Looking back on the whirlwind last few weeks, Hoffman is still a bit dazed:

"I'm overwhelmed by the fact I was the only coach allowed to stay. The men on Blackman's staff were extremely well versed in the game and I feel I've become a better coach from working with them.

"I am elated to be here although I feel badly for those who wanted to stay."

HOFFMAN POINTS OUT that the new staff is by no means "green" insofar as Illinois is concerned. Glenn Mason had worked the North Chicago area for Iowa State. Rick Venturi is a native Illinoisan who has worked the state for Alex Agase at Northwestern and Purdue. Norm Parker became familiar with the St. Louis area at Minnesota.

"All the new coaches received a crash course in the University of Illinois," informs Hoffman. "They didn't need any crash course in recruiting. They know what to do."

Interesting start for Mid-Suburban teams

Mid-Suburban League teams found both triumphs and tribulations on the prep basketball road Monday as most holiday tournaments reached tip-off.

Competing at sites from Centralia to DeKalb, area cagers struck for five victories against eight defeats. State-ranked Buffalo Grove won easily and Fremd upset highly-regarded Barrington to highlight first-night action.

MANY OF THE squads are back on the hardcourt today. Elk Grove plays its first game in the Edwardsville tournament and Prospect begins play at Pontiac.

Here's how the action unfolded Monday:

BISON IN ROMP

It was just what the doctor ordered, a breather that would allow Brian Allsmiler to spend some time on the bench.

Buffalo Grove opened play in the Rockford Boylan tournament with an effortless 74-32 victory over Chicago Carver, once a Chicago Public League power.

The Bison, who return to action at 2:00 today, exploded for a 39-16 halftime lead, and Allsmiller, who had nine baskets in the opening half, was able to sit out a good portion of the final 16 minutes.

ALLSMILLER finished with 20 points, tossing in a pair of second half free throws, and Mike Marshall contributed eight baskets. Scott Groot had five field goals as Coach Paul Grady used 12 players and 10 scored.

Buffalo Grove had 25 points in a red-hot second period, with Allsmiller collecting six baskets in that surge.

Barrington reserve guard Bruce Henricksen, who led the Broncos with 15 points, had nine of them in the second quarter as the team cut the halftime score to 35-29.

Irish best Penn in Gator, 20-9

JACKSONVILLE, Fal — Al Hunter, the first Notre Dame player to gain 1,000 yards in a single season, scored a pair of first half touchdowns Monday night to lead the Irish to a 20-9 victory over Penn State in the Gator Bowl.

Hunter, picking up 76 yards in the first half, scored on a one-yard plunge with 2:26 left in the first period and on another one-yard smash 2:20 before halftime for the only touchdowns the favored Irish needed in a game dominated by the Notre Dame defense.

Irish defenders turned back two Penn State scoring threats in the final period with interceptions. The only time Penn State got beyond its own 32 in the first half was on the Nittany Lions' first possession, when they drove 55 yards to the Notre Dame 10 and had to settle for a 3-0 lead midway through the first period on a 26-yard field goal by Tony Capozzoli.

A 65-yard return by Terry Eurick on the ensuing kickoff put Notre Dame at the Penn State 35 and, 11 plays later, Hunter gave the Irish a lead they were to keep for the rest of the night.

Cowens to return to Celts in 1977

QUINCY, Mass. — Boston Celtics center Dave Cowens plans to return to basektball for the 1977-78 season, according to a published interview Monday.

In an exclusive interview with the Patriot Ledger of Quincy, Mass., Cowens said he plans to return in late September when his team opens training camp.

"I'll definitely be there the first day training camp opens. I'll be ready to go at it again. Whether the Celtics want me or not, I'll be there," Cowens was quoted as saying.

The 6-foot-9 redhead also said he will begin a job Jan. 11 as assistant general manager at the New England Harness Raceway in Foxboro, Mass.

When he left the team, he said he had lost his enthusiasm for the game and needed a rest. Since that time, the defending NBA champions have remained in contention in the Atlantic Division but struggling in the absence of a dominant big man.

Turner purchase of Hawks rumored

ATLANTA — Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves baseball team, will buy the Hawks franchise of the National Basketball Association within the next two weeks, the Atlanta Journal reported in its Monday editions.

Turner, a multimillionaire broadcasting and advertising executive who owns an Atlanta television station, has denied plans to buy the sagging Hawks, but the Journal quoted sources close to the team as saying he had discussed the purchase with current owner Tom Cousins.

Speculation has been that Turner would move the Hawks to Charlotte, N.C. but the Journal said the sources indicated Turner would keep the team in Atlanta.

Montreal holds off Cleveland

Serge Savard and Guy Lafleur broke a 2-2 tie with third period goals Monday to lead the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Barons.

The victory gave the Habs 58 points, 23 more than second place Pittsburgh in the NHL's Norris Division.

Savard notched a 30-footer at 4:09 of the final period and, less than two minutes later, Lafleur fired home his 27th goal after a pass from Pete Mahovolich.

Former Detroit center Marcel Dionne scored a hat trick to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a 7-4 win over his old teammates.

Dionne scored a goal in each period of the penalty marred game. Officials handed out 116 minutes of penalties, including 64 to the victors.

Ken Houston scored two goals to pace the Atlanta Flames to a 6-2 victory over the Colorado Rockies.

The Flames outshot the Rockies 40-27 while moving three points ahead of the idle New York Rangers in their battle for third place in the Patrick Division.

St. Lawrence second in grid poll

St. Lawrence High School of Chicago, which won the Illinois Class 5A state football championship this year, was voted the second best high school team in the United States Monday by the National Sports News Service.

St. Lawrence, which fashioned an impeccable 13-0 record, came home in the balloting behind co-champions Warner-Robins (Ga.) 13-0 and Cincinnati Moeller 12-0.

Saban is new Hurricane coach

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — Lou Saban, who quit jobs with the Buffalo Bills and the University of Cincinnati earlier this year, Monday was named head football coach of the University of Miami Hurricanes, bearers of only one winning season since 1967.

"I'm very thrilled about the opportunity and tremendously impressed with the plans of the university to have a fine football program," Saban said. "I am thoroughly convinced they intend to develop a winner."

The Hurricanes have been looking for a new coach since Dec. 3, the eve of the final game of their 3-8 season, when Carl Selmer was fired after two losing years.

Lake Placid faces building woes

ALBANY, N.Y. — A search for an alternate ski jump site for the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid could cause a critical delay in planning for the event, according to an attorney for the organizing committee.

The possibility of such a delay was raised Monday at the first day of hearing by the Adirondack Park Agency on the environmental impact of building a 70 and 90-meter ski jump at Intervale, site of the present ski jump in Lake Placid.

The question of an alternate site was raised late in the day following lengthy testimony from two Department of Environmental Conservation experts on the visual impact of the proposed ski jump.

BUFFALO GROVE has five semifinalists while the Cardinals (20½) and the Huskies (17½) have a trio each.

Another 126-pound semi faceoff will have Buffalo Grove's Dave Millay facing Brad Perry of Fenton.

Kurt Lewis of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling's Mike Reif advanced Monday at 132. Another Wildcat, Tim Miller, is in the semis at 138 pounds while Hersey's Bruce Temesy moved up at 145.

Viator advances at Luther North

St. Viator, operating without the services of foul-plagued 6-foot-8 center Paul Wiloff, slowed the tempo of the game advantageously to record a 52-48 triumph over stubborn Niles North in the Luther North Holiday Tournament. The Lions meet the host school today at 4:30 for fifth place.

With Wiloff nursing four fouls in the third period, the Lions strategically were in no hurry to run with the Vikings and settled for a 10-9 scoring advantage before Wiloff's return in the final stanza.

PAUL ROGOZINSKI, a 6-foot-4 junior forward, picked up the scoring slack with 15 points. Rick Sanders added nine off the bench and Steve Notaro popped in eight. Wiloff chalked five.

The Lions forced 23 turnovers in the contest, but didn't put the decision on ice until Rogozinski hit both ends of a bonus free throw situation with two seconds remaining.

Harper falls to Highland

The Harper Hawks got a double barrel blast of Dave Goeke and the official's whistle Monday to drop their opening game in the Highland Holiday Tournament to the hosts, 105-90.

Highland's Goeke, a 6-3 sophomore guard, dealt the Hawks some serious damage with a 40 point outing.

But, the big hurt came from the officials as Highland converted 31 of 38 free throws and fouled Jim Arden, Scott Green and Mark Russo out of the game.

Harper managed only eight of 14 free throw attempts.

Harper made a game of it, pulling within a point at 76-75 midway through the second half.

The Hawks got balanced scoring with Russo leading the way with 23 points.

Steve Duffy chipped in 18 while Mike Nichol and Arden scored 14 apiece. Guard Kenny Hanks also had 11 points.

The Hawks will play a consolation game with Illinois Valley today at 2:30 p.m.

Warriors surge past Morton E.

Maine West unleashed a devastating fast-break offense to start the second half, outscoring Morton East, 25-8 en route to a 69-52 triumph in the first round of the York Holiday Tournament.

The Warriors of head coach Gaston Freeman overcame a four-point deficit at the intermission as 5-11 junior guard Tim Logisz lit the fuse with long-range shooting. The Warrior playmaker notched half of his 16 points in the third frame.

Maine West jumped out to a 14-9 first-quarter edge, but the Mustangs capitalized on 4-of-12 Warrior shooting from the floor in the second quarter to assume a 29-25 advantage at intermission.

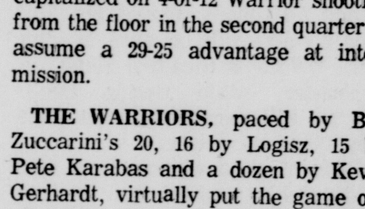

THE WARRIORS, paced by Bob Zuccarini's 20, 16 by Logisz, 15 by Pete Karabas and a dozen by Kevin Gerhardt, virtually put the game out of reach with their third-period explosion.

Although outrebounded, 39-29, the Warriors hit just a shade under 50 per cent from the field, running their patterns and cashing the short percentage shots.

Maine West advances in the winner's bracket against Glenbard North today at 3:30 p.m.

Irish best Penn in Gator, 20-9

JACKSONVILLE, Fal — Al Hunter, the first Notre Dame player to gain 1,000 yards in a single season, scored a pair of first half touchdowns Monday night to lead the Irish to a 20-9 victory over Penn State in the Gator Bowl.

Hunter, picking up 76 yards in the first half, scored on a one-yard plunge with 2:26 left in the first period and on another one-yard smash 2:20 before halftime for the only touchdowns the favored Irish needed in a game dominated by the Notre Dame defense.

Irish defenders turned back two Penn State scoring threats in the final period with interceptions. The only time Penn State got beyond its own 32 in the first half was on the Nittany Lions' first possession, when they drove 55 yards to the Notre Dame 10 and had to settle for a 3-0 lead midway through the first period on a 26-yard field goal by Tony Capozzoli.

A 65-yard return by Terry Eurick on the ensuing kickoff put Notre Dame at the Penn State 35 and, 11 plays later, Hunter gave the Irish a lead they were to keep for the rest of the night.

Cowens to return to Celts in 1977

QUINCY, Mass. — Boston Celtics center Dave Cowens plans to return to basektball for the 1977-78 season, according to a published interview Monday.

In an exclusive interview with the Patriot Ledger of Quincy, Mass., Cowens said he plans to return in late September when his team opens training camp.

"I'll definitely be there the first day training camp opens. I'll be ready to go at it again. Whether the Celtics want me or not, I'll be there," Cowens was quoted as saying.

The 6-foot-9 redhead also said he will begin a job Jan. 11 as assistant general manager at the New England Harness Raceway in Foxboro, Mass.

When he left the team, he said he had lost his enthusiasm for the game and needed a rest. Since that time, the defending NBA champions have remained in contention in the Atlantic Division but struggling in the absence of a dominant big man.

Turner purchase of Hawks rumored

ATLANTA — Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves baseball team, will buy the Hawks franchise of the National Basketball Association within the next two weeks, the Atlanta Journal reported in its Monday editions.

Turner, a multimillionaire broadcasting and advertising executive who owns an Atlanta television station, has denied plans to buy the sagging Hawks, but the Journal quoted sources close to the team as saying he had discussed the purchase with current owner Tom Cousins.

Speculation has been that Turner would move the Hawks to Charlotte, N.C. but the Journal said the sources indicated Turner would keep the team in Atlanta.

Montreal holds off Cleveland

Serge Savard and Guy Lafleur broke a 2-2 tie with third period goals Monday to lead the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Barons.

The victory gave the Habs 58 points, 23 more than second place Pittsburgh in the NHL's Norris Division.

Savard notched a 30-footer at 4:09 of the final period and, less than two minutes later, Lafleur fired home his 27th goal after a pass from Pete Mahovolich.

Former Detroit center Marcel Dionne scored a hat trick to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a 7-4 win over his old teammates.

Dionne scored a goal in each period of the penalty marred game. Officials handed out 116 minutes of penalties, including 64 to the victors.

Ken Houston scored two goals to pace the Atlanta Flames to a 6-2 victory over the Colorado Rockies.

The Flames outshot the Rockies 40-27 while moving three points ahead of the idle New York Rangers in their battle for third place in the Patrick Division.

St. Lawrence second in grid poll

St. Lawrence High School of Chicago, which won the Illinois Class 5A state football championship this year, was voted the second best high school team in the United States Monday by the National Sports News Service.

St. Lawrence, which fashioned an impeccable 13-0 record, came home in the balloting behind co-champions Warner-Robins (Ga.) 13-0 and Cincinnati Moeller 12-0.

Saban is new Hurricane coach

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — Lou Saban, who quit jobs with the Buffalo Bills and the University of Cincinnati earlier this year, Monday was named head football coach of the University of Miami Hurricanes, bearers of only one winning season since 1967.

"I'm very thrilled about the opportunity and tremendously impressed with the plans of the university to have a fine football program," Saban said. "I am thoroughly convinced they intend to develop a winner."

The Hurricanes have been looking for a new coach since Dec. 3, the eve of the final game of their 3-8 season, when Carl Selmer was fired after two losing years.

Lake Placid faces building woes

ALBANY, N.Y. — A search for an alternate ski jump site for the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid could cause a critical delay in planning for the event, according to an attorney for the organizing committee.

The possibility of such a delay was raised Monday at the first day of hearing by the Adirondack Park Agency on the environmental impact of building a 70 and 90-meter ski jump at Intervale, site of the present ski jump in Lake Placid.

The question of an alternate site was raised late in the day following lengthy testimony from two Department of Environmental Conservation experts on the visual impact of the proposed ski jump.

Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington and Hersey all grabbed a share of semifinal representation as the Glenbrook South Holiday Wrestling Tourney plowed through its first day of competition.

After opening round action, Barrington led the tourney as expected with 47½ points. They were hotly pursued however, by the Wildcats at 43 and both teams advanced half a dozen grapplers into the semis.

Niles East built up 34 points to take over third place, followed by Glenbrook South (33½), Fenton (32¼) and the Bison (32) in that order.

BUFFALO GROVE has five semifinalists while the Cardinals (20½) and the Huskies (17½) have a trio each.

One leadoff 98-pound bout today will pit Todd Wilson of the 'Cats against Bison Wayne Collette. Redbird Paul Preissing advanced at 112 while teammate Dan Weber won at 126 and will now take on Bob Busse of Wheeling.

Another 126-pound semi faceoff will have Buffalo Grove's Dave Millay facing Brad Perry of Fenton.

Kurt Lewis of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling's Mike Reif advanced Monday at 132. Another Wildcat, Tim Miller, is in the semis at 138 pounds while Hersey's Bruce Temesy moved up at 145.

AT 155 'CAT Dale Walters takes on Todd Whitfield of the host Titans while Bison Tim Dunn tackles Barrington's Steve Pinkley. Chris Rugg of Buffalo Grove is a semifinalist at 167.

The slate for 185 pounds today sees Bob Schachner of the Huskies colliding with Al Lembetz of LaGrange while Arlington's Jason Slezak meets Al Hurley of Fenton. Wheeling heavyweight Ken Kent is another local wrestler advancing to semifinal round combat.

Viator advances at Luther North

St. Viator, operating without the services of foul-plagued 6-foot-8 center Paul Wiloff, slowed the tempo of the game advantageously to record a 52-48 triumph over stubborn Niles North in the Luther North Holiday Tournament. The Lions meet the host school today at 4:30 for fifth place.

With Wiloff nursing four fouls in the third period, the Lions strategically were in no hurry to run with the Vikings and settled for a 10-9 scoring advantage before Wiloff's return in the final stanza.

PAUL ROGOZINSKI, a 6-foot-4 junior forward, picked up the scoring slack with 15 points. Rick Sanders added nine off the bench and Steve Notaro popped in eight. Wiloff chalked five.

The Lions forced 23 turnovers in the contest, but didn't put the decision on ice until Rogozinski hit both ends of a bonus free throw situation with two seconds remaining.

Harper falls to Highland

The Harper Hawks got a double barrel blast of Dave Goeke and the official's whistle Monday to drop their opening game in the Highland Holiday Tournament to the hosts, 105-90.

Highland's Goeke, a 6-3 sophomore guard, dealt the Hawks some serious damage with a 40 point outing.

But, the big hurt came from the officials as Highland converted 31 of 38 free throws and fouled Jim Arden, Scott Green and Mark Russo out of the game.

Harper managed only eight of 14 free throw attempts.

Harper made a game of it, pulling within a point at 76-75 midway through the second half.

The Hawks got balanced scoring with Russo leading the way with 23 points.

Steve Duffy chipped in 18 while Mike Nichol and Arden scored 14 apiece. Guard Kenny Hanks also had 11 points.

The Hawks will play a consolation game with Illinois Valley today at 2:30 p.m.

Warriors surge past Morton E.

Maine West unleashed a devastating fast-break offense to start the second half, outscoring Morton East, 25-8 en route to a 69-52 triumph in the first round of the York Holiday Tournament.

The Warriors of head coach Gaston Freeman overcame a four-point deficit at the intermission as 5-11 junior guard Tim Logisz lit the fuse with long-range shooting. The Warrior playmaker notched half of his 16 points in the third frame.

Maine West jumped out to a 14-9 first-quarter edge, but the Mustangs capitalized on 4-of-12 Warrior shooting from the floor in the second quarter to assume a 29-25 advantage at intermission.

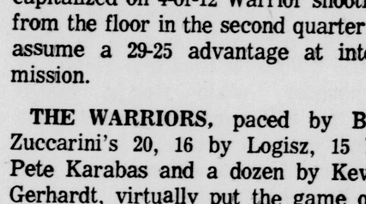

THE WARRIORS, paced by Bob Zuccarini's 20, 16 by Logisz, 15 by Pete Karabas and a dozen by Kevin Gerhardt, virtually put the game out of reach with their third-period explosion.

Although outrebounded, 39-29, the Warriors hit just a shade under 50 per cent from the field, running their patterns and cashing the short percentage shots.

Maine West advances in the winner's bracket against Glenbard North today at 3:30 p.m.

CONANT BOWS AT LINE

Conant got off two shots in the final nine seconds, but neither would drop and the Cougars bowed to York in the opening round of the latter's holiday tournament. Conant plays again tonight at 6.

Not only were the Cougars stymied from the field in the late going, but coach Dick Redlinger's outfit missed six free throws in the fourth quarter alone and 12 of 19 for the game.

YORK GUARD Dave Slocum scored from 15 feet to notch the winning bucket, but Conant, after Dave Plumb canned two technical foul shots, owned the lead, 47-46, and the ball with just one minute remaining.

The Cougars received balanced scoring highlighted by Rob Totten's 13 and 10 from Dave Brumm. York countered behind Mike Fleming's 19, 15 coming in the second half in a game that was tied 13 times.

ST. JOE TRIPS 'CATS

St. Joseph jumped into a 22-11 first quarter lead and then coasted to a 74-66 triumph over Wheeling in opening round action at the Proviso West Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The Wildcats scrapped slowly back into contention after giving up the big opening period bulge. By mid-game, they trailed by only seven and pulled within five of the Chargers after three quarters of play.

A balanced St. Joe scoring effort saw five players hit double figures led by Lyle Dobbins with 17.

BRIAN BEGROWICZ also struck for 17 to pace the 'Cats with Ken Paulus contributing 15 and Jim Lockaefer 12.

Dobbins also hauled in 14 rebounds to help the Chargers gain a 42-30 edge on the boards. St. Joe was particularly strong in going to their own offensive board.

The setback drops Wheeling into consolation bracket action where they will play at 12:30 today.

FALCONS FALL, 60-58

A three-point play by Sycamore's Louis Ducksworth with 39 seconds remaining sent Forest View into the losers' bracket at the DeKalb Holiday Basketball Tournament, 60-58.

The Falcons, despite the balanced scoring by Jeff Martinski (15), Bob Cameron and Jim Kennedy (14) and Chris Hanson (10), led only twice during the contest, but clung to a 58-57 advantage with time running out.

But Ducksworth clicked on his 23rd and 24th points of the game on a lay-up and was fouled for a decisive three-point play. Forest View played for one shot, but failed to send the game into overtime.

Ducksworth, a 6-4 forward, also paced Sycamore to a 34-31 edge in rebounding. Cameron's 13 boards led the Falcons who play Lincolnway at 3 o'clock today.

SAXONS TUMBLE, 47-41

Schaumburg suffered through 1-for-11 shooting from the floor in the second quarter and never fully recovered while dropping a tense 47-41 decision to Prosser in the Luther North Holiday Tournament. The Saxons will face Maine North today at 1.

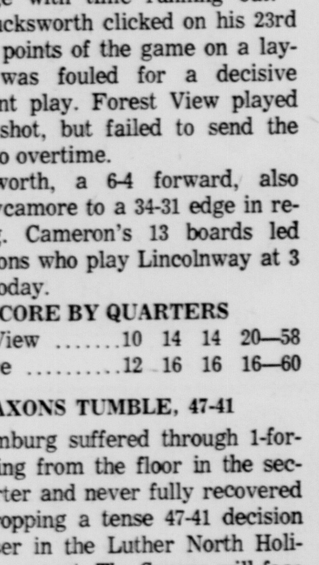

Prosser owned a 39-37 third-quarter lead when it went into a stall, freezing the ball until Schaumburg was forced to foul. The teams combined for just 10 points in the final period in a showcase of passing and free-throw shooting.

Relentless John Chmiel accounted for 25 of the Saxons' 41 points, scoring from virtually every spot on the court.

CONANT BOWS AT LINE

Conant got off two shots in the final nine seconds, but neither would drop and the Cougars bowed to York in the opening round of the latter's holiday tournament. Conant plays again tonight at 6.

Not only were the Cougars stymied from the field in the late going, but coach Dick Redlinger's outfit missed six free throws in the fourth quarter alone and 12 of 19 for the game.

YORK GUARD Dave Slocum scored from 15 feet to notch the winning bucket, but Conant, after Dave Plumb canned two technical foul shots, owned the lead, 47-46, and the ball with just one minute remaining.

The Cougars received balanced scoring highlighted by Rob Totten's 13 and 10 from Dave Brumm. York countered behind Mike Fleming's 19, 15 coming in the second half in a game that was tied 13 times.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Conant	12	12	14	9—47
York	14	10	12	12—48

ST. JOE TRIPS 'CATS

St. Joseph jumped into a 22-11 first quarter lead and then coasted to a 74-66 triumph over Wheeling in opening round action at the Proviso West Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The Wildcats scrapped slowly back into contention after giving up the big opening period bulge. By mid-game, they trailed by only seven and pulled within five of the Chargers after three quarters of play.

A balanced St. Joe scoring effort saw five players hit double figures led by Lyle Dobbins with 17.

BRIAN BEGROWICZ also struck for 17 to pace the 'Cats with Ken Paulus contributing 15 and Jim Lockaefer 12.

Dobbins also hauled in 14 rebounds to help the Chargers gain a 42-30 edge on the boards. St. Joe was particularly strong in going to their own offensive board.

The setback drops Wheeling into consolation bracket action where they will play at 12:30 today.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

St. Joe	22	16	19	17—74
Wheeling	11	20	21	14—66

FALCONS FALL, 60-58

A three-point play by Sycamore's Louis Ducksworth with 39 seconds remaining sent Forest View into the losers' bracket at the DeKalb Holiday Basketball Tournament, 60-58.

The Falcons, despite the balanced scoring by Jeff Martinski (15), Bob Cameron and Jim Kennedy (14) and Chris Hanson (10), led only twice during the contest, but clung to a 58-57 advantage with time running out.

But Ducksworth clicked on his 23rd and 24th points of the game on a lay-up and was fouled for a decisive three-point play. Forest View played for one shot, but failed to send the game into overtime.

Ducksworth, a 6-4 forward, also paced Sycamore to a 34-31 edge in rebounding. Cameron's 13 boards led the Falcons who play Lincolnway at 3 o'clock today.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Forest View	10	14	14	20—58
Sycamore	12	16	16	16—60

SAXONS TUMBLE, 47-41

Schaumburg suffered through 1-for-11 shooting from the floor in the second quarter and never fully recovered while dropping a tense 47-41 decision to Prosser in the Luther North Holiday Tournament. The Saxons will face Maine North today at 1.

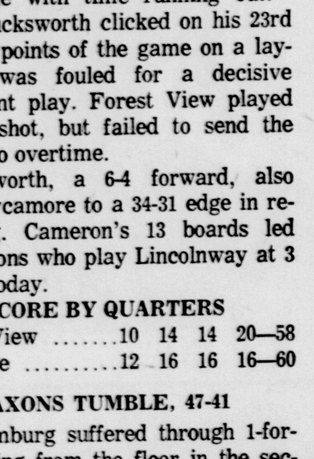

Prosser owned a 39-37 third-quarter lead when it went into a stall, freezing the ball until Schaumburg was forced to foul. The teams combined for just 10 points in the final period in a showcase of passing and free-throw shooting.

Relentless John Chmiel accounted for 25 of the Saxons' 41 points, scoring from virtually every spot on the court.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Schaumburg	15	9	13	4—41
Prosser	15	14	12	6—47
